Differ on Harriman Promise

Jobless Mission Now Under Fire

Albany, July 16 (AP)—Is Gov. Harriman keeping his promise to help the so-called "distressed" areas of the state?

Ask that question of the state commerce commissioner and you get an emphatic "yes."

However, a top civic leader of one of the unemployment-plagued communities gives a resounding "no."

WHEN HARRIMAN was campaigning for governor last fall, he lambasted the Republican administration for what he said was an "indifferent" attitude toward rising joblessness. He promised that, if elected, he would do something about it.

A month before he took office, Harriman sent a four-man team on a fact-finding tour of the most seriously afflicted communities — Amsterdam, Hudson, Schenectady and the Gloversville-Johnstown area. Its avowed mission was to diagnose the ailment; the new Democratic administration was to cure it.

Now, seven months later, Commerce Commissioner Edward T. Dickinson concedes that the economic situation of these and other communities is little improved. In fact, conditions may grow worse in Amsterdam as the Bigelow-Sanford Co., the city's second largest employer, prepared to move to Connecticut this fall.

But, says Dickinson, the Commerce Department is busy at work on the problem.

"THIS IS A BIG job we have to do," Dickinson says, "and you can't perform miracles overnight. With all the irons we have in the fire, some of them are bound to pay off soon.

In Amsterdam, however, Karl M. Kent, president of the city's chamber of commerce and chairman of industries for Amsterdam, a citizens' action group, says results are long overdue.

The fact is, says Kent, that the Harriman Administration "hasn't done a damn thing for us." He adds:

"WE STILL DON'T have any industry. There isn't any place that needs it worse then we do. By this time we should have had some real action. It isn't too

West Shore To Carry Passengers

Hearings at End For Service Drop

Newark, N. J., July 16 (AP)—Five months of hearings into the New York Central Railroad's bid to drop passenger service on the West Shore division ended yesterday.

Meanwhile, the Central announced that it will continue service on the line at least until Nov. 15, the date when a decision is expected from the Public Utility Commission.

REPRESENTATIVES of 12 Bergen and Rockland county towns opposing the proposed abandonment wound up their case yesterday before the PUC with testimony from John M. Davis, general superintendent of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad, and Herman O. Pond of Tenafly, member of the Bergen County Planning Board.

Davis said the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad could carry commuters in the Bergen county area from Little Ferry or Ridgefield Park to the "Hudson Tube" stations at Hoboken and Erie for runs to midtown and downtown Manhattan.

Pond called for better train service to take cars off congested highways, insisting that any plan calling for commuters to change trains on the New Jersey side is doomed to failure.

THE CENTRAL has claimed it is losing millions annually on the line which serves 4,000 passengers daily from Weehawken, N. J., to Albany, N. Y., along the Hudson river. A ferry connects from Weehawken to New York city.

William D. Main, director of passenger train service economics for the Central, said yesterday nothing at the extensive hearings had changed his opinion about dropping the line except for freight service.

The PUC gave railroad and commuter groups a deadline of September 15 for filing briefs and Oct. 1 for answering briefs.

New Design Hoped For Air Academy

Washington, July 16 (AP)—The air force reportedly hopes to provide a new design next week to prevent delay in building its new academy near Colorado Springs, Colo.

Congressional sources who asked not to be named said yesterday that Secretary of the Air Force Talbot will present a revised design Monday.

But Pentagon air force officials said they knew of no new designs Talbott might present.

The Congressional sources said they understood the new plan would eliminate about 45 per cent of the glass proposed in the 125 million dollar buildings for the academy.

City Offices Closed

The Water Department and all city offices with the exception of the Police Department are closed on Saturdays during July and August.

STARS AT QUANTICO—Adm. Arleigh Burke (seated) wears four stars for the first time as he confers with Gen. Lemuel Shepherd, Jr., Marine Corps Commandant. Meeting took place at the 3rd annual conference of military and civilian defense leaders in Quantico, Va. Burke, a Rear Admiral until he becomes Chief of Naval Operations August 17, was wearing the stars for the four-day conference.

Complacency Hit On U.S. Air Power

Sober Words Given on Achievements And Apparent Aims of Soviet Force

Quantico, Va., July 16 (AP)—The nation's military leaders heard from their own experts today some sobering words about the achievements and aims of the Russian Air Force.

But the 170 civilians, generals and admirals attending briefings at the annual defense secretaries' conference also were given assurance that the United States still holds qualitative superiority in the air.

EXTRACTS FROM papers prepared by three top military commanders for delivery to the conference were made available. Here is what the abbreviated summaries reported about the briefings:

Gen. Nathan F. Twining air force chief of staff—assaying the capabilities of Russia's long range bomber force as measured by the recent Moscow display of new, far-flying, heavy jet bombers, he said this "concrete evidence of accelerated Soviet progress clearly determines a Soviet intent to develop an effective long-range air arm."

Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff—weapons are increasing in power, in complicated mechanism and in expense.

"WE ARE REACHING now into the fringe areas." Radford said, "where there are new unknowns with which to deal—unknowns such as the space above us, the high speeds of aircraft, atomic energy, guided missiles—all these and more besides. These same areas of new unknowns are

Ask for Bids On $350,000 Span Work

The New York State Bridge Authority at a meeting held yesterday announced that they would receive bids on August 11 for the electrical contracting work on the new Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge which will involve 89 lights on the bridge and other electrical work estimated to cost approximately $350,000.

Also approved was the purchase of new equipment for toll booths on the Bear Mountain Bridge which would be secured at an estimated cost of $20,000.

IT WAS ALSO made known that the authority received formal notice from John W. Johnson, superintendent of the Department of Public Works in Albany that a tentative location for the proposed site of the Newburgh Bridge would be about one mile north of the Beacon Ferry slip.

The Newburgh-Beacon Ferry was discussed briefly, however no action was taken. According to a spokesman for the authority, a proposal such as was mentioned in area newspapers could not be undertaken without authorization and the allocation of funds from the state Legislature.

Five commissioners who attended the meeting were:

Robert Hoe, chairman of Poughkeepsie; Dr. John L. Edwards, vice chairman of Hudson; Harry Cohen, Newburgh; Neil Brandow, West Coxsackie and Ernest Heppner, Kingston.

New York, July 16 (AP)—The CIO United Rubber Workers Union signed a new pension and insurance contract with U. S. Rubber Co. last night and announced it would open wage negotiations with the Big-Four rubber producers on Aug. 9.

George A. Shaughnessy, of Elm street, Bennington, Vt., was arrested at 1:50 p. m., Friday on East Chester street by Officer Ernest Bartroff on a charge of speeding. He posted bail for appearance in City Court on Monday.

Merchants Begin Plans for Record August Day Sale

August sale days are being planned by the Retail Merchants committee of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. The definite dates will be announced.

Regional merchants groups and all individual stores are invited to cooperate and make the 1955 summer sale days the greatest ever held. The Chamber of Commerce will pay for all the general advertising.

WITH NEARLY 1,000 retail and service outlets of all kinds in Kingston and the area very complete and wide selections of merchandise and services are available. Modern highways are expanding the trading area. Increased population is attracting new stores and causing expansion and modernization of many established stores.

At present definite steps are being taken to make more and convenient parking available which should attract still more customers.

THE KINGSTON Area Chamber of Commerce suggests that all customers watch for the "August Sale Days" announcements and that plans be made to take advantage of the many attractive offers to be made.

A spokesman for the Chamber of Commerce committee stated that all merchants and business areas have an equal opportunity to attract customers but the number attracted will depend upon the attractiveness of the special offers made by individual stores and advertised by them.

Three Learn Bitter Lesson

Prisoners Ready For U.S. Action

Yokohama, Japan, July 16 (AP)—Three former U. S. soldiers, who chose and then rejected life in Red China, tonight said they had "learned a bitter lesson" and were "going home prepared to pay for our mistakes."

The three—William Cowart, 23, Dalton, Ga.; Lewis Griggs, 22, Jacksonville, Tex., and Otho Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Miss.—issued a joint statement aboard the American President liner President Cleveland shortly after it docked here.

IT WAS A repetition of the same excuses they made when they crossed the Red China border into Hong Kong's free territory last Sunday.

Captured in the Korean War, the three chose to stay with the Communists rather than be repatriated late in 1953.

Here, as at Kobe, Japan, two days ago, the three were not allowed off the President Cleveland. It is scheduled to sail tomorrow for San Francisco via Honolulu.

"WE ENTERED the Iron Curtain as children blind to life," their statement said, "with no practical understanding of life and reality. As a result of our experiences (in Red China) we grew up. We became men, not physically but mentally. When one becomes a man, he acts as a child no longer."

They likened themselves to a youth who chooses the "wrong profession during high school, finds he made a wrong choice, and changes accordingly."

"The same applies to us. We grew up and came out."

THE STATEMENT was signed by all three men but obviously was worded by Cowart, who has acted as leader of the group since before they crossed the border.

Except for the brief reference to being prepared to pay for their mistakes, the men made no reference in their statement tonight to their life in prisoner-of-war camps before they chose to remain with the Reds.

At Hong Kong, however, each, admitted he had done things as a prisoner of war that made him afraid to go home after the Korean War ended.

They did not specify what they had done, although Griggs referred vaguely to an article he said he had written and which he described as anti-American.

Casablanca Riots Are Spreading

Martial Law Is Called; 26 Dead

Casablanca, Morocco, July 16 (AP) — Rioting in Casablanca, which has taken 26 lives in the past two days, spread to the native quarter of the city today despite a declaration of martial law in the city.

In the native quarter, built along modern lines, Moroccans set fire to a hospital and a sugar warehouse. Firemen called to put out the flames were stoned. Army tanks were ordered to the area.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of martial law was made by Gilbert Grandval, the new French resident general, who declared police forces had showed themselves inadequate in the past 36 hours. During yesterday's wild demonstrations in the European quarter, police were reported to have been conspiciously absent. Grandval had previously ordered a 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew.

All stores in the European quarter were closed tight and street traffic was far below normal. Police and firemen worked to clear away debris from yesterday's rioting.

Reinforced police and army units patrolled the streets and a police plane flew low over the city to spot congregations of people.

NATO Endorses Big 3 Plan For Geneva Meeting Talks

Paris, July 16 (AP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance gave unanimous endorsement today to the plans of the western Big Three for the impending meeting at the summit in Geneva.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay reported to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) council and received its approval.

A SPOKESMAN said after the meeting there were "no points at issue."

Most of the 15 ministers spoke during the three-hour meeting, putting their nation's views on record, including a West German insistence that the unification of Germany is paramount to European security.

The NATO powers have been kept informed of the thinking of the Big Three in preparation for the Geneva conference, but today's meeting was designed to provide an official opportunity for an exchange of views.

THE EXPERTS from the Big Three who drew up the proposals for the summit talks submitted their general plan to the NATO Council several days ago.

Baby Adoption Ring Worker to Testify

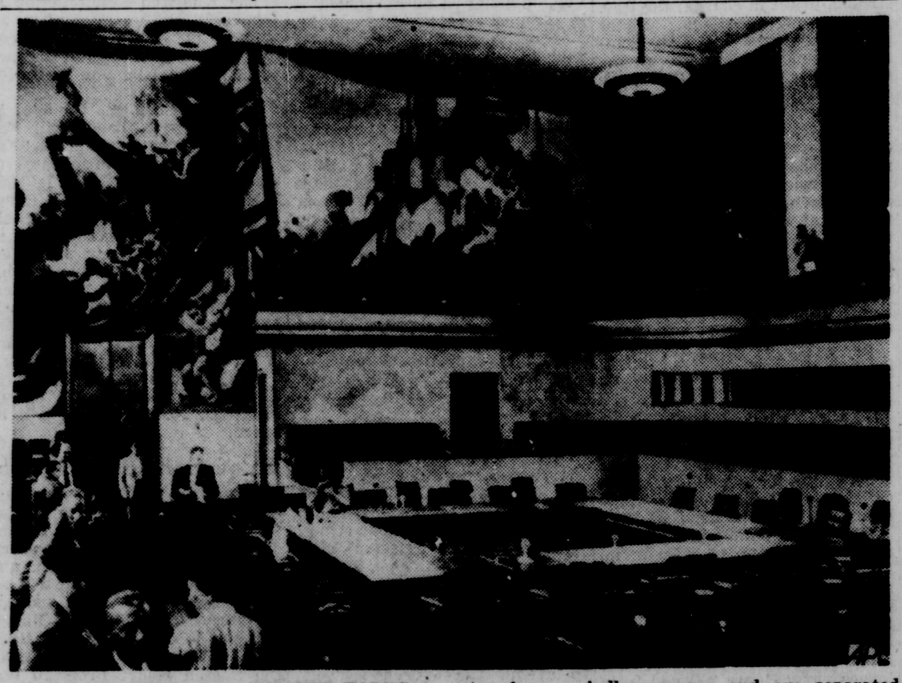
She is Mrs. Agenes Bretchtels, who, a subcommittee spokesman said, is "the source of expectant mothers for a Chicago attorney." Witnesses have testified that some lawyers placed babies in foster homes at fees ranging to $5,000. The subcommittee counsel did not name the attorney in question.



COUNCIL ROOM FOR SUMMIT TALKS—Here is the council room in the Palace of Nations at Geneva, Switzerland, where the Big Four leaders will hold their summit-level conference starting July 18. The Palace of Nations, now the European headquarters for the United Nations, was originally built to house the League of Nations. The four tables in the center form a hollow square and are separated from the spectators' benches by a low partition. Walking about the room at left are newspaper men and photographers. The murals are by the Spanish artist Jose Maria Sert and represent Man's Triumph over War. (AP Wirephoto via radio from London)

Humid Weather Due Over Sunday

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—More hot weather was expected for most of the state again today and tomorow despite a rain that brought temporary respite last night.

The humidity will drop slightly in western sections today, the weather bureau said, but the rest of the state will be hot and sticky until late Sunday.

Temperatures across the state last night fell to the 70s. Utica reported the lowest—69.

The weather bureau said the rain last night, ranging from 3.88 inches at Rome to mere traces in some sections, brought little relief to drought conditions in central and western New York.

U.S. Party Is Greeted In Iceland

Ike Asks Soviets To Keep Pledges

Washington, July 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower flew across the Atlantic today toward a Big Four conference at Geneva after expressing hope that mankind's greatest step toward peace and prosperity may be taken there in the next few fateful days.

The Eisenhower plane reached Keflavik, Iceland, air force base approximately 10 hours after taking off from Washington at 9:18 p. m. (EDT) last night. It was the only stop planned enroute to Geneva.

AFTER A STOP of about two hours the plane took off at 9:05 a. m. EDT on the second leg of the flight.

The Eisenhower party had lunch with President and Mrs. Asgeir Asgeirsson of Iceland and others, including John Muccio, the U. S. minister there.

Eisenhower made a brief, informal talk saying he was going to Geneva "in a search for peace." He said, too, "I shall hope the cause of peace can be advanced for all the world," and that people everywhere "will achieve a more tranquil life with peace and justice."

President Asgeirsson replied that "we wish you well and also success in your important work at the meeting in Geneva. We also wish you success in the work for peace and security."

ABOARD THE President's personal plane, the Columbine III, were Mrs. Eisenhower and their son, Maj. John Eisenhower.

In a dramatic White House broadcast less than an hour before taking off from Washington, Eisenhower all but pleaded with the Russians to make good on their recent tolerance and conciliation pledges.

He spoke in moving terms of what he called a speech by Soviet Premier Bulganin:

"HE TALKED of conciliation and tolerance and understanding. I say to you, I say to all the world, if the words that he expressed are truly reflective of the hearts and minds of the men in the Kremlin . . . then there will be no trouble between the Russian delegation and our own at this coming conference."

And, said the President with deep seriousness, if the distrust

REV. JOSEPH J. SIECZEK

10th Anniversary Of Pastor Sieczek Scheduled Sunday

The 10th anniversary of the Rev. Joseph J. Sieczek as pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, Delaware avenue, will be celebrated by his congregation Sunday with a religious and social program.

A high Mass will be offered in the church at 11 a. m. by Father Sieczek, and at 6 p. m. a testimonial dinner is to be held in White Eagle Hall, adjoining the church.

The Holy Name and Holy Rosary Societies of the congregation will assemble in the hall of Immaculate Conception School and march from there to the church in a body.

MEMBERS of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and Mary Society are to meet in White Eagle Hall for their march to the church.

Parish committees have been busy with elaborate plans to honor their pastor, who has been their spiritual leader since 1945. During his years in Kingston, Father Sieczek has made many friends among those of all religious faiths, who hold him in high regard.

Father Sieczek was ordained to the priesthood 28 years ago by the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes on June 11, 1927, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York. His first assignment was as assistant pastor of St. Stanislaus Church, 101 East Seventh street, New York.

IN JANUARY 1938, Father Sieczek was transferred to the newly-organized parish of St. Hedwig, 62 East 106th street as administrator. From that church he was promoted to pastor of Immaculate Conception Church

Jersey Man Killed Near Spring Valley

Spring Valley, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Raymond Schaper, 55, of 10 Alexander ave., Waldwick, N. J., was killed last night when his pickup truck collided head-on with a larger truck on Route 45 about a mile south of here.

Schaper was proceeding northward just after crossing the New York state line when the collision occurred about 10 p. m. Cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

Police said the other truck, a new 1955 model van-type vehicle, was owned and operated by Israel Krasney, 56, of 1501 48th st., Brooklyn. Riding with him was a 15-year-old helper, Rudolph Baez of 98 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn.

Police said Krasney and Baez suffered minor injuries. They were taken to the Spring Valley hospital.

See No Hot War in Forseeable Future

West Diplomats Sure Red Leaders Realize Victory Is Out of Grasp

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Geneva NEA—No hot war in the foreseeable future — because the Soviet leaders know they could not win.

This is the consensus of some of the best-informed Western diplomats attending the Big Four conference at Geneva.

IN SUBSTANTIATING this forecast, they assert that the Red bloc is in the midst of serious industrial and agricultural crises. They are not impressed by Moscow's denial that the Soviet economy is near collapse.

In addition the political structure of Soviet imperialism shows signs of crumbling, say these diplomats. In Soviet dominated eastern Europe and East Germany, Moscow's puppet-rulers are said to be fearful lest chief Russian delegate Premier Nikolai Bulganin trade their power to gain western concessions. The recent Belgrade buddy act put on by Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal Tito sent a chill through the "loyal" satellite chiefs.

Who will Khrushchev embrace at Geneva?

As seen by Geneva arrivals, the key to Moscow's "new look" strategy is contained in Khrushchev's recent warning to the West: "If you don't want to talk seriously we can wait and hold on."

This, in Red doubletalk, simply means that the Kremlin rulers are playing for time. They obviously don't mind waiting for the relaxation of world tension—the longer, as a matter of fact, the better. The Geneva talks are another holding operation.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have shown they expect no easy victories at Geneva. Neither do the Reds. As at previous international conferences, Moscow will he satisfied with "small" gains.

One such "small" aim would be a relaxation in the East-West trade in strategic goods, desperately needed by the Red bloc's war industries. (They will ask for more—and take more—if they can get it without risking a general nuclear war.)

Another aim is to avoid, if possible, clear decision on Ger-

Germ War Tries Killed 2,000

War 2 Experiments Are Bared in Tokyo Story

Tokyo, July 16 (AP)—A Japanese magazine has published what it said was an eyewitness account of Japanese germ warfare experiments during World War 2.

Hiroshi Akiyama, writing in the current issue of Bungei Shunju, estimated that at least 1,500 to 2,000 persons were killed at a germ warfare center 25 miles south of Harbin, Manchuria.

Akiyama, who claims he was assigned to the huge germ warfare unit as a drafted army civilian, said "human guinea pigs" were daily given germ injections.

When they died, he wrote their bodies were burned in an incinerator.

He also said Japanese army officers running the germ warfare center experimented with germ-filled bombs. Human subjects were tied to posts and bombs dropped nearby, he said.

"But this proved a failure," the article said, "because the heat of the explosion killed 80 per cent of the germs."

Later, he recounts, the germ warfare group experimented with a porcelain bomb packed with gelatin containing germs. When the bomb hit, the article said, it splattered the germ laden gelatin over the area.

Akiyama said the chinaware bomb was devised by Lt. Gen. Shiro Ishii, commander of the experiment unit. Akiyama said the unit was known as army unit 731.

In 1950 Soviet Russia accused Japan of conducting germ warfare and specifically charged

Casablanca, Morocco, July 16 (AP) — Rioting in Casablanca, which has taken 26 lives in the past two days, spread to the native quarter of the city today despite a declaration of martial law in the city.

In the native quarter, built along modern lines, Moroccans set fire to a hospital and a sugar warehouse. Firemen called to put out the flames were stoned. Army tanks were ordered to the area.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of martial law was made by Gilbert Grandval, the new French resident general, who declared police forces had showed themselves inadequate in the past 36 hours. During yesterday's wild demonstrations in the European quarter, police were reported to have been conspiciously absent. Grandval had previously ordered a 9 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew.

All stores in the European quarter were closed tight and street traffic was far below normal. Police and firemen worked to clear away debris from yesterday's rioting.

Reinforced police and army units patrolled the streets and a police plane flew low over the city to spot congregations of people.

Paris, July 16 (AP)—The 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance gave unanimous endorsement today to the plans of the western Big Three for the impending meeting at the summit in Geneva.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay reported to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) council and received its approval.

A SPOKESMAN said after the meeting there were "no points at issue."

Most of the 15 ministers spoke during the three-hour meeting, putting their nation's views on record, including a West German insistence that the unification of Germany is paramount to European security.

The NATO powers have been kept informed of the thinking of the Big Three in preparation for the Geneva conference, but today's meeting was designed to provide an official opportunity for an exchange of views.

THE EXPERTS from the Big Three who drew up the proposals for the summit talks submitted their general plan to the NATO Council several days ago.

Baby Adoption Ring Worker to Testify

She is Mrs. Agenes Bretchtels, who, a subcommittee spokesman said, is "the source of expectant mothers for a Chicago attorney." Witnesses have testified that some lawyers placed babies in foster homes at fees ranging to $5,000. The subcommittee counsel did not name the attorney in question.

Humid Weather Due Over Sunday

Albany, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—More hot weather was expected for most of the state again today and tomorow despite a rain that brought temporary respite last night.

The humidity will drop slightly in western sections today, the weather bureau said, but the rest of the state will be hot and sticky until late Sunday.

Temperatures across the state last night fell to the 70s. Utica reported the lowest—69.

The weather bureau said the rain last night, ranging from 3.88 inches at Rome to mere traces in some sections, brought little relief to drought conditions in central and western New York.

10th Anniversary Of Pastor Sieczek Scheduled Sunday

The 10th anniversary of the Rev. Joseph J. Sieczek as pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, Delaware avenue, will be celebrated by his congregation Sunday with a religious and social program.

A high Mass will be offered in the church at 11 a. m. by Father Sieczek, and at 6 p. m. a testimonial dinner is to be held in White Eagle Hall, adjoining the church.

The Holy Name and Holy Rosary Societies of the congregation will assemble in the hall of Immaculate Conception School and march from there to the church in a body.

MEMBERS of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and Mary Society are to meet in White Eagle Hall for their march to the church.

Parish committees have been busy with elaborate plans to honor their pastor, who has been their spiritual leader since 1945. During his years in Kingston, Father Sieczek has made many friends among those of all religious faiths, who hold him in high regard.

Father Sieczek was ordained to the priesthood 28 years ago by the late Patrick Cardinal Hayes on June 11, 1927, in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York. His first assignment was as assistant pastor of St. Stanislaus Church, 101 East Seventh street, New York.

IN JANUARY 1938, Father Sieczek was transferred to the newly-organized parish of St. Hedwig, 62 East 106th street as administrator. From that church he was promoted to pastor of Immaculate Conception Church

U.S. Party Is Greeted In Iceland

Ike Asks Soviets To Keep Pledges

Washington, July 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower flew across the Atlantic today toward a Big Four conference at Geneva after expressing hope that mankind's greatest step toward peace and prosperity may be taken there in the next few fateful days.

The Eisenhower plane reached Keflavik, Iceland, air force base approximately 10 hours after taking off from Washington at 9:18 p. m. (EDT) last night. It was the only stop planned enroute to Geneva.

AFTER A STOP of about two hours the plane took off at 9:05 a. m. EDT on the second leg of the flight.

The Eisenhower party had lunch with President and Mrs. Asgeir Asgeirsson of Iceland and others, including John Muccio, the U. S. minister there.

Eisenhower made a brief, informal talk saying he was going to Geneva "in a search for peace." He said, too, "I shall hope the cause of peace can be advanced for all the world," and that people everywhere "will achieve a more tranquil life with peace and justice."

President Asgeirsson replied that "we wish you well and also success in your important work at the meeting in Geneva. We also wish you success in the work for peace and security."

ABOARD THE President's personal plane, the Columbine III, were Mrs. Eisenhower and their son, Maj. John Eisenhower.

In a dramatic White House broadcast less than an hour before taking off from Washington, Eisenhower all but pleaded with the Russians to make good on their recent tolerance and conciliation pledges.

He spoke in moving terms of what he called a speech by Soviet Premier Bulganin:

"HE TALKED of conciliation and tolerance and understanding. I say to you, I say to all the world, if the words that he expressed are truly reflective of the hearts and minds of the men in the Kremlin . . . then there will be no trouble between the Russian delegation and our own at this coming conference."

And, said the President with deep seriousness, if the distrust

Jersey Man Killed Near Spring Valley

Spring Valley, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Raymond Schaper, 55, of 10 Alexander ave., Waldwick, N. J., was killed last night when his pickup truck collided head-on with a larger truck on Route 45 about a mile south of here.

Schaper was proceeding northward just after crossing the New York state line when the collision occurred about 10 p. m. Cause of the accident was not immediately determined.

Police said the other truck, a new 1955 model van-type vehicle, was owned and operated by Israel Krasney, 56, of 1501 48th st., Brooklyn. Riding with him was a 15-year-old helper, Rudolph Baez of 98 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn.

Police said Krasney and Baez suffered minor injuries. They were taken to the Spring Valley hospital.

See No Hot War in Forseeable Future

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Geneva NEA—No hot war in the foreseeable future — because the Soviet leaders know they could not win.

This is the consensus of some of the best-informed Western diplomats attending the Big Four conference at Geneva.

IN SUBSTANTIATING this forecast, they assert that the Red bloc is in the midst of serious industrial and agricultural crises. They are not impressed by Moscow's denial that the Soviet economy is near collapse.

In addition the political structure of Soviet imperialism shows signs of crumbling, say these diplomats. In Soviet dominated eastern Europe and East Germany, Moscow's puppet-rulers are said to be fearful lest chief Russian delegate Premier Nikolai Bulganin trade their power to gain western concessions. The recent Belgrade buddy act put on by Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal Tito sent a chill through the "loyal" satellite chiefs.

Who will Khrushchev embrace at Geneva?

As seen by Geneva arrivals, the key to Moscow's "new look" strategy is contained in Khrushchev's recent warning to the West: "If you don't want to talk seriously we can wait and hold on."

This, in Red doubletalk, simply means that the Kremlin rulers are playing for time. They obviously don't mind waiting for the relaxation of world tension—the longer, as a matter of fact, the better. The Geneva talks are another holding operation.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have shown they expect no easy victories at Geneva. Neither do the Reds. As at previous international conferences, Moscow will he satisfied with "small" gains.

One such "small" aim would be a relaxation in the East-West trade in strategic goods, desperately needed by the Red bloc's war industries. (They will ask for more—and take more—if they can get it without risking a general nuclear war.)

Another aim is to avoid, if possible, clear decision on Ger-

Germ War Tries Killed 2,000

Tokyo, July 16 (AP)—A Japanese magazine has published what it said was an eyewitness account of Japanese germ warfare experiments during World War 2.

Hiroshi Akiyama, writing in the current issue of Bungei Shunju, estimated that at least 1,500 to 2,000 persons were killed at a germ warfare center 25 miles south of Harbin, Manchuria.

Akiyama, who claims he was assigned to the huge germ warfare unit as a drafted army civilian, said "human guinea pigs" were daily given germ injections.

When they died, he wrote their bodies were burned in an incinerator.

He also said Japanese army officers running the germ warfare center experimented with germ-filled bombs. Human subjects were tied to posts and bombs dropped nearby, he said.

"But this proved a failure," the article said, "because the heat of the explosion killed 80 per cent of the germs."

Later, he recounts, the germ warfare group experimented with a porcelain bomb packed with gelatin containing germs. When the bomb hit, the article said, it splattered the germ laden gelatin over the area.

Akiyama said the chinaware bomb was devised by Lt. Gen. Shiro Ishii, commander of the experiment unit. Akiyama said the unit was known as army unit 731.

Religions of Our Day

(This is another of a series of informative articles on the role of religion in today's world, written for The Kingston Daily Freeman by leading authorities of the various faiths and denominations. Later articles will discuss Christian Scientists, Baptists, Episcopalians and Seventh-day Adventists.)

By John Cogley

Yes. The fact that there are many religions, all holding different—often contradictory — doctrines about God and man often strikes the Catholic as tragic. The idea that they are all equally true (those that hold Christ was divine and those that hold He was merely human, for instance) seems absurdly illogical.

Catholics believe that Christ, the Son of God, founded the Church and promised to remain with it, "even unto the consummation of the world." But when they say theirs is the only true religion, Catholics do not mean that they alone are the children of God or that only Catholics are righteous and God-fearing. Many non-Catholics are saints; some Catholics are scoundrels.

Nor do Cotholics believe that only Catholics go to heaven. Pope Pius IX wrote: "It is to be held as of faith that none can be saved outside the Apostolic Roman Church . . . but, nevertheless, it is equally certain that those who are ignorant of true religion, if that ignorance is invincible, will not be held guilty in the eyes of the Lord." Catholics believe that in the sight of God, all who love Him and sincerely desire to do His will are related in some way to the Church which His Son founded and so can be saved.

What are the chief differences between the Catholic and Jewish faiths? The Catholic and Protestant?

The Catholic Church claims four distinctive marks:: it is one (in doctrine, authority and worship), holy (perfect observance of its teachings leads inevitably to sanctity), catholic (it is unchanging in its essential teachings and preaches the same gospel and administers the same sacraments to men of all times in all places) and apostolic (it traces its ancestry back to the Apostles and, like them, carries the message of Christ to all, regardless of race, nationality, station or class.)

JUDAISM: Pope Pius XI at the time of the Hitler persecutions wrote: "Spiritually, we are Semites." In the Mass, reference is made to "our father Abraham."

The Catholic recognizes the unique role of the Jewish people before Christ. He shares their belief in God the Father, in the brotherhood of man and in the moral teachings handed down by the patriarchs and prophets. Christianity, as he sees it, is the fulfillment of Judaism. "I came not to destroy the law but to fulfill it." Christ said.

The big difference is that Catholics believe that Jesus Christ was the promised Messiah, true God and true Man. They believe that mankind was redeemed by Christ's atonement, though individual men must still work out their own personal salvation by faith and good works.

Catholics accept the New Testament with its "new law" of charity—by which is meant the love of God for His own sake and for all men (even of enemies) because they too are children of God. The Catholic believes that with the coming of Christ, all races and nations became "chosen people."

PROTESTANTISM embraces a variety of doctrines. Some Protestants are closer to Catholic belief than others. Two of the chief differences seem to be these:

The Bible: Protestants believe in private interpretation. Catholics believe that the Church is the divinely appointed custodian of the Bible and has the final word on what is meant in any specific passage. The Church guards orthodoxy (including interpretation of the Scriptures) and passes down essential Christian tradition from one generation to another.

Universal Priesthood: Most Protestants affirm the "priesthood of all believers," in opposition to the Catholic idea of a specially ordained priesthood. Catholics, too, believe that by virtue of the sacraments, laymen share in the priesthood of Christ. But the "priesthood of the laity" is subordinated to that of the clergy, who alone have received the sacrament of Holy Orders.

The Catholic Mass is not the same as a Protestant Communion service — not only in ceremony but in what each congregation believes is taking place. Protestantism provides for a greater variety of opinion on such matters as divorce and birth control, which the Catholic feels have been settled once and for all either by the natural law or by revelation.

The average Protestant thinks of "the Church" as a broad spiritual unity; the Catholic using the same words has a precise institution — the Roman Catholic Church—in mind.

May Catholic priests take part in interreligious services?

No. The public worship of Catholics, and the priest's exercise of his spiritual office, are subject to the authority of the Church. Since the Church's authority is not recognized by the other participants at an interfaith service. Catholics at such services—be they priests or laity — are placed in an untenable position. They are implicitly called upon to deny their own Church's claims and sometimes, by the wording of prayers and hymns, to assent explicitly to beliefs they do not hold.

Do Catholics believe the Pope can do no wrong? Must Catholics accept everything the Pope says?

Catholics do not believe the Pope can do no wrong. Nor does the Pope. He confesses regularly to a simple priest, like the humblest peasant in the Church. Catholics admit freely that there were Popes who were wicked men (I first learned of them in parochial schools), though their number and the enormity of their sins have often been exaggerated.

Catholics do believe that the Pope, be he saint or sinner, is preserved by God from leading the Church into doctrinal error. These are the conditions of a papal pronouncement which Catholics consider infallible: (1) It must come under the heading of faith or morals; (2) the Pope must be speaking as head of the Church with the intention of obliging its members to assent to his definition.

Everything that the Church teaches as infallible doctrine, a Catholic must accept. On questions that have not been defined as articles of faith (the miracles at Fatima, for instance), he is under no such obligation.

What do Catholics believe about the Virgin Mary? Does the recent doctrine of the Assumption mean that Mary is now in an actual place?

Catholics believe that from the moment of her conception in her mother's womb, the Mother of Christ was preserved free from original sin. This is what is known as the Immaculate Conception, often confused with the Virgin Birth—which, of course, refers to the birth of Christ. Mary remained a virgin throughout her life. Soon after her death, her body was reunited with her soul in heaven.

Because of her stainless life and vast dignity as the Mother of the God-Man, Catholics believe, Mary is the greatest of the saints. Catholics pray to God through Mary because they believe that she is a powerful intercessor and that when Christ on Calvary said, "Behold thy mother!" she became the mother of mankind.

The Assumption (the belief that Mary's body was preserved from corruption and taken to heaven and reunited to her soul) is not a new belief. Fifteen hundred years ago, the feast was celebrated. What took place during 1950 was this: Pope Pius XII solemnly declared that the ancient belief was now a formal doctrine, to which all Catholics must give assent. The Pope made this solemn declaration in answer to a widespread popular request by clergy and laity.

The word "heaven" is used to mean both a place and a state of being. Of the state, Catholics believe that it consists essentially in seeing God "face to face" (I Cor. 13, 12). Of the place, we have no knowledge beyond the fact that it exists. "Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man what God hath prepared for those who love Him." (I Cor. 2, 9).

Do Catholics believe that unbaptized babies cannot go to heaven because of "original sin?"

Yes. It is Catholic belief that no one by nature has a "right" to heaven. Man does not have a claim on the supernatural happiness which he enjoys in seeing God "face to face." It is a free gift of God.

The loss of supernatural life—generally called the fall from grace—was incurred by Adam at the time of his rebellion against God. Because Adam was head of the human race, all mankind was involved in the historic sin of disobedience by which the first man rejected the gifts God had given him above and beyond the needs of human nature.

Since the redemption by Christ ("the new Adam"), it has been possible for men to regain the life of grace. Baptism restores supernatural life. Without that life, man simply does not have the capacity to enjoy heaven. In the case of adults, the Church teaches, the life of grace may be gained by an act of perfect contrition or pure love of God ("baptism of desire"), Infants are incapable of such an act of the will.

Unbaptized babies (in limbo) do not suffer in any way, even from a sense of loss. St. Thomas Aquinas taught that they, too, have knowledge of God—but according to a "natural" capacity. Their happiness is greater than any known by man on earth, however limited in comparison with that of the saints in heaven.

How do Catholics look on the Devil?

Catholics believe that Satan (the leader of the fallen angels) and his cohorts are pure spirits with an intelligence of a very high order and a will which is now obstinately bent on evil.

The Devil and the other fallen angels can tempt and torment men, though all temptations are not directly attributable to them.

Many religious thinkers have said that the Devil's greatest triumph lies in convincing the world that he doesn't exist.

Hell, to Catholics, means two things: a place and a state of punishment. The Devil is not confined to hell as a place, and will not be until the last day; but he exists "in hell"—as a state of eternal punishment.

Why do Catholics worship "graven images?"

They don't. Like any religion, Catholicism uses symbols to heighten the meaning of spiritual truths.

The Council of Trent summed up the Catholic position on images four hundred years ago: "The images of Christ and the Virgin Mother of God, and of the other saints, are to be had and to be kept, especially in the churches, and due honor and veneration are to be given to them; not that any divinity or virtue is believed to be in them, on account of which they are to be worshiped, or that anything is to be asked of them, or that trust is to be put in images, as was done of old by the Gentiles who placed their hopes in idols; but because the honor which is shown them is referred to the prototypes which these images represent."

Water is an ancient symbol of spiritual purification. Holy water in the Church is an adaptation of an old Jewish custom.

Catholics do not believe that the water has any power in itself. When it is sprinkled, with appropriate prayers, on buildings, farm implements and the like, the ceremony signifies that the Church is humbly calling upon God to drive away the forces of Satan and accept for His own glory the uses to which the thing blessed will be put. Man is a unity of body and spirit, and the Church has never hesitated to recognize this by using material objects to signify spiritual realities.

What is purgatory?

Like "heaven" or "hell," the word "purgatory" refers to a place and a state.

Catholics believe that purgatory exists to purge those souls who are not yet pure enough for heaven but have not died in a state of serious (mortal) sin. Such near-saints must undergo the pain of intense longing for God until they have paid the debt of temporal punishment due them because of their sins on earth.

In a word, purgatory exists to make saints who will be ready for the purity of God's presence. If one does not succeed in becoming a saint on earth but yet escapes eternal hell, he is purified in purgatory.

What is the real meaning of the Mass?

The Mass is the central act of worship in the Catholic Church. It is the true sacrifice of the Body and Blood of Christ, made present on the altar by the words of consecration (over the bread, "This is my body;" over the wine, "This is . . . my blood"). "In this divine sacrifice," the Council of Trent declared, "the same Christ is present and immolated in a bloodless manner who once for all offered himself in a bloody manner on the altar of the cross . . . only the manner of offering is different."

Mass must be celebrated by a priest or bishop, with whom the congregation joins in offering to God "a re-presentation and a renewal of the offering made on Calvary."

Catholics believe that after the priest pronounces the words of consecration in the Mass, the whole substance of the bread becomes the Body of Christ, the whole substance of the wine becomes the Blood of Christ. They believe that Christ is truly and substantially present in the Eucharist, body and soul, humanity and divinity.

Do Catholics regard the human body and the act of love as shameful?

The Church puts great stress on modesty—but precisely because it disapproves so strongly of an cheapening of sex, which it regards as a sacred trust.

How could a Church that teaches the Son of God became flesh and blood regard the human body as shameful?

Far from looking upon the act of love as unclean, the Church teaches that it is the means by which men share in the work of the Creator.

Is it true that Catholics consider all non-Catholic children illegitimate?

No. It is Church law that the wedding of a Catholic must be performed in the presence of a priest and two witnesses. In the case of non-Catholics, the Church recognizes the sacredness and binding nature of all ceremonies which mark "the conjugal union of man and woman, contracted between two qualified persons, which obliges them to live together throughout life."

Does the Church forbid intermarriage?

Yes. But while never approving of mixed marriages, the Church for a serious reason will lift the ban provided (a) the non-Catholic party agrees in writing not to interfere with the religion of the Catholic; (b) both parties agree to have all children baptized and brought up as Catholics; and (c) there is moral certainty that the promises will be kept.

Catholics believe that marriage, by its nature, must be a contract "till death do us part." The Church does not recognize any absolute divorce between a couple who are validly married, where one or the other would be free to marry again.

For good reasons (infidelity, cruelty), the Church may approve separation from bed and board. In such cases, a Catholic may be permitted to get a civil divorce in order to satisfy some legal requirement. He may not, however, remarry during the lifetime of the other party.

In cases where the Church has decreed nullity—where, according to Church law, there was no marriage in the first place—a

Yes. The fact that there are many religions, all holding different—often contradictory — doctrines about God and man often strikes the Catholic as tragic. The idea that they are all equally true (those that hold Christ was divine and those that hold He was merely human, for instance) seems absurdly illogical.

Catholics believe that Christ, the Son of God, founded the Church and promised to remain with it, "even unto the consummation of the world." But when they say theirs is the only true religion, Catholics do not mean that they alone are the children of God or that only Catholics are righteous and God-fearing. Many non-Catholics are saints; some Catholics are scoundrels.

Nor do Cotholics believe that only Catholics go to heaven. Pope Pius IX wrote: "It is to be held as of faith that none can be saved outside the Apostolic Roman Church . . . but, nevertheless, it is equally certain that those who are ignorant of true religion, if that ignorance is invincible, will not be held guilty in the eyes of the Lord." Catholics believe that in the sight of God, all who love Him and sincerely desire to do His will are related in some way to the Church which His Son founded and so can be saved.

What are the chief differences between the Catholic and Jewish faiths? The Catholic and Protestant?

The Catholic Church claims four distinctive marks:: it is one (in doctrine, authority and worship), holy (perfect observance of its teachings leads inevitably to sanctity), catholic (it is unchanging in its essential teachings and preaches the same gospel and administers the same sacraments to men of all times in all places) and apostolic (it traces its ancestry back to the Apostles and, like them, carries the message of Christ to all, regardless of race, nationality, station or class.)

JUDAISM: Pope Pius XI at the time of the Hitler persecutions wrote: "Spiritually, we are Semites." In the Mass, reference is made to "our father Abraham."

The Catholic recognizes the unique role of the Jewish people before Christ. He shares their belief in God the Father, in the brotherhood of man and in the moral teachings handed down by the patriarchs and prophets. Christianity, as he sees it, is the fulfillment of Judaism. "I came not to destroy the law but to fulfill it." Christ said.

The big difference is that Catholics believe that Jesus Christ was the promised Messiah, true God and true Man. They believe that mankind was redeemed by Christ's atonement, though individual men must still work out their own personal salvation by faith and good works.

Catholics accept the New Testament with its "new law" of charity—by which is meant the love of God for His own sake and for all men (even of enemies) because they too are children of God. The Catholic believes that with the coming of Christ, all races and nations became "chosen people."

PROTESTANTISM embraces a variety of doctrines. Some Protestants are closer to Catholic belief than others. Two of the chief differences seem to be these:

The Bible: Protestants believe in private interpretation. Catholics believe that the Church is the divinely appointed custodian of the Bible and has the final word on what is meant in any specific passage. The Church guards orthodoxy (including interpretation of the Scriptures) and passes down essential Christian tradition from one generation to another.

Universal Priesthood: Most Protestants affirm the "priesthood of all believers," in opposition to the Catholic idea of a specially ordained priesthood. Catholics, too, believe that by virtue of the sacraments, laymen share in the priesthood of Christ. But the "priesthood of the laity" is subordinated to that of the clergy, who alone have received the sacrament of Holy Orders.

The Catholic Mass is not the same as a Protestant Communion service — not only in ceremony but in what each congregation believes is taking place. Protestantism provides for a greater variety of opinion on such matters as divorce and birth control, which the Catholic feels have been settled once and for all either by the natural law or by revelation.

The average Protestant thinks of "the Church" as a broad spiritual unity; the Catholic using the same words has a precise institution — the Roman Catholic Church—in mind.

May Catholic priests take part in interreligious services?

No. The public worship of Catholics, and the priest's exercise of his spiritual office, are subject to the authority of the Church. Since the Church's authority is not recognized by the other participants at an interfaith service. Catholics at such services—be they priests or laity — are placed in an untenable position. They are implicitly called upon to deny their own Church's claims and sometimes, by the wording of prayers and hymns, to assent explicitly to beliefs they do not hold.

Do Catholics believe the Pope can do no wrong? Must Catholics accept everything the Pope says?

Catholics do not believe the Pope can do no wrong. Nor does the Pope. He confesses regularly to a simple priest, like the humblest peasant in the Church. Catholics admit freely that there were Popes who were wicked men (I first learned of them in parochial schools), though their number and the enormity of their sins have often been exaggerated.

Catholics do believe that the Pope, be he saint or sinner, is preserved by God from leading the Church into doctrinal error. These are the conditions of a papal pronouncement which Catholics consider infallible: (1) It must come under the heading of faith or morals; (2) the Pope must be speaking as head of the Church with the intention of obliging its members to assent to his definition.

Everything that the Church teaches as infallible doctrine, a Catholic must accept. On questions that have not been defined as articles of faith (the miracles at Fatima, for instance), he is under no such obligation.

What do Catholics believe about the Virgin Mary? Does the recent doctrine of the Assumption mean that Mary is now in an actual place?

Catholics believe that from the moment of her conception in her mother's womb, the Mother of Christ was preserved free from original sin. This is what is known as the Immaculate Conception, often confused with the Virgin Birth—which, of course, refers to the birth of Christ. Mary remained a virgin throughout her life. Soon after her death, her body was reunited with her soul in heaven.

Because of her stainless life and vast dignity as the Mother of the God-Man, Catholics believe, Mary is the greatest of the saints. Catholics pray to God through Mary because they believe that she is a powerful intercessor and that when Christ on Calvary said, "Behold thy mother!" she became the mother of mankind.

The Assumption (the belief that Mary's body was preserved from corruption and taken to heaven and reunited to her soul) is not a new belief. Fifteen hundred years ago, the feast was celebrated. What took place during 1950 was this: Pope Pius XII solemnly declared that the ancient belief was now a formal doctrine, to which all Catholics must give assent. The Pope made this solemn declaration in answer to a widespread popular request by clergy and laity.

The word "heaven" is used to mean both a place and a state of being. Of the state, Catholics believe that it consists essentially in seeing God "face to face" (I Cor. 13, 12). Of the place, we have no knowledge beyond the fact that it exists. "Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man what God hath prepared for those who love Him." (I Cor. 2, 9).

Do Catholics believe that unbaptized babies cannot go to heaven because of "original sin?"

Yes. It is Catholic belief that no one by nature has a "right" to heaven. Man does not have a claim on the supernatural happiness which he enjoys in seeing God "face to face." It is a free gift of God.

The loss of supernatural life—generally called the fall from grace—was incurred by Adam at the time of his rebellion against God. Because Adam was head of the human race, all mankind was involved in the historic sin of disobedience by which the first man rejected the gifts God had given him above and beyond the needs of human nature.

Since the redemption by Christ ("the new Adam"), it has been possible for men to regain the life of grace. Baptism restores supernatural life. Without that life, man simply does not have the capacity to enjoy heaven. In the case of adults, the Church teaches, the life of grace may be gained by an act of perfect contrition or pure love of God ("baptism of desire"). Infants are incapable of such an act of the will.

Unbaptized babies (in limbo) do not suffer in any way, even from a sense of loss. St. Thomas Aquinas taught that they, too, have knowledge of God—but according to a "natural" capacity. Their happiness is greater than any known by man on earth, however limited in comparison with that of the saints in heaven.

How do Catholics look on the Devil?

Catholics believe that Satan (the leader of the fallen angels) and his cohorts are pure spirits with an intelligence of a very high order and a will which is now obstinately bent on evil.

The Devil and the other fallen angels can tempt and torment men, though all temptations are not directly attributable to them.

Many religious thinkers have said that the Devil's greatest triumph lies in convincing the world that he doesn't exist.

Hell, to Catholics, means two things: a place and a state of punishment. The Devil is not confined to hell as a place, and will not be until the last day; but he exists "in hell"—as a state of eternal punishment.

Why do Catholics worship "graven images?"

They don't. Like any religion, Catholicism uses symbols to heighten the meaning of spiritual truths.

The Council of Trent summed up the Catholic position on images four hundred years ago: "The images of Christ and the Virgin Mother of God, and of the other saints, are to be had and to be kept, especially in the churches, and due honor and veneration are to be given to them; not that any divinity or virtue is believed to be in them; on account of which they are to be worshiped, or that anything is to be asked of them, or that trust is to be put in images, as was done of old by the Gentiles who placed their hopes in idols; but because the honor which is shown them is referred to the prototypes which these images represent."

Water is an ancient symbol of spiritual purification. Holy water in the Church is an adaptation of an old Jewish custom.

Catholics do not believe that the water has any power in itself. When it is sprinkled, with appropriate prayers, on buildings, farm implements and the like, the ceremony signifies that the Church is humbly calling upon God to drive away the forces of Satan and accept for His own glory the uses to which the thing blessed will be put. Man is a unity of body and spirit, and the Church has never hesitated to recognize this by using material objects to signify spiritual realities.

What is purgatory?

Like "heaven" or "hell," the word "purgatory" refers to a place and a state.

Catholics believe that purgatory exists to purge those souls who are not yet pure enough for heaven but have not died in a state of serious (mortal) sin. Such near-saints must undergo the pain of intense longing for God until they have paid the debt of temporal punishment due them because of their sins on earth.

In a word, purgatory exists to make saints who will be ready for the purity of God's presence. If one does not succeed in becoming a saint on earth but yet escapes eternal hell, he is purified in purgatory.

What is the real meaning of the Mass?

The Mass is the central act of worship in the Catholic Church. It is the true sacrifice of the Body and Blood of Christ, made present on the altar by the words of consecration (over the bread, "This is my body;" over the wine, "This is . . . my blood").

"In this divine sacrifice," the Council of Trent declared, "the same Christ is present and immolated in a bloodless manner who once for all offered himself in a bloody manner on the altar of the cross . . . only the manner of offering is different."

Mass must be celebrated by a priest or bishop, with whom the congregation joins in offering to God "a re-presentation and a renewal of the offering made on Calvary."

Catholics believe that after the priest pronounces the words of consecration in the Mass, the whole substance of the bread becomes the Body of Christ, the whole substance of the wine becomes the Blood of Christ. They believe that Christ is truly and substantially present in the Eucharist, body and soul, humanity and divinity.

Do Catholics regard the human body and the act of love as shameful?

The Church puts great stress on modesty—but precisely because it disapproves so strongly of an cheapening of sex, which it regards as a sacred trust.

How could a Church that teaches the Son of God became flesh and blood regard the human body as shameful?

Far from looking upon the act of love as unclean, the Church teaches that it is the means by which men share in the work of the Creator.

Is it true that Catholics consider all non-Catholic children illegitimate?

No. It is Church law that the wedding of a Catholic must be performed in the presence of a priest and two witnesses. In the case of non-Catholics, the Church recognizes the sacredness and binding nature of all ceremonies which mark "the conjugal union of man and woman, contracted between two qualified persons, which obliges them to live together throughout life."

Does the Church forbid intermarriage?

Yes. But while never approving of mixed marriages, the Church for a serious reason will lift the ban provided (a) the non-Catholic party agrees in writing not to interfere with the religion of the Catholic; (b) both parties agree to have all children baptized and brought up as Catholics; and (c) there is moral certainty that the promises will be kept.

Catholics believe that marriage, by its nature, must be a contract "till death do us part." The Church does not recognize any absolute divorce between a couple who are validly married, where one or the other would be free to marry again.

For good reasons (infidelity, cruelty), the Church may approve separation from bed and board. In such cases, a Catholic may be permitted to get a civil divorce in order to satisfy some legal requirement. He may not, however, remarry during the lifetime of the other party.

In cases where the Church has decreed nullity—where, according to Church law, there was no marriage in the first place—a civil annulment or divorce may sometimes be necessary.

Religions of

In a case where doctors agree that a mother may die during childbirth, must Catholic doctors save the child rather than the mother?

No. The Cathoilc doctor is bound to make every eflort to save both. Both mother and child have an inherent right to life. Neither may be killed so the other can live. This is the answer the Church has to give either to a grief-stricken young husband who needs the help of his wife in raising a family, or to a royal figure who feels a greater need for a son and heir than for his queen. Directly to take the life of an innocent is never permitted—even as a means to a good end.

The question, incidentally, is largely academic. Statistics show that maternity deaths in the nation's Catholic hospitals are as low as any.

Why don't priests and nuns marry?

For hundreds of years, the Western Church has required that its clergy remain unmarried. This is a disciplinary matter which could (but undoubtedly won't) be changed overnight.

The rule leaves priests wholly free from the responsibilities of family life for pastoral and missionary work. It is wholeheartedly accepted by the clergy and is popular with the Catholic laity.

Nuns and monks take a vow of chastity—not because they despise marriage and human love but in order to dedicate themselves wholly to the service of God in a religious order.

Nuns (and those monks who have not received priestly orders) may marry with the Church's blessing any time they are dispensed from their vows by the proper authority. But as long as they choose to remain in the cloister, nuns and monks are obliged to observe the life of poverty, chastity and obedience to which they have freely dedicated themselves.

Incidentally, thousands of Catholic priests are married. They are members of the Eastern rites, in union with Rome. Among these Catholics, it is customary to ordain married men, though second marriages are forbidden.

Why does the Catholic Church oppose birth control? Why does the Church oppose the dissemination of birth control information among non-Catholics (as in Massachusetts voting?)

The Catholic position on birth control is based on the belief that (a) artificial contraception is against the law of God, and (b) because it is immoral, it cannot be employed as a means, even to a good end.

Strictly speaking, it is artificial birth prevention (by means of contraceptive devices, chemicals, etc.) which the Church condemns as intrinsically evil. The proper end of the sex act is procreation. The physical expression of love is surely good but is subordinated to the ultimate reason for sexual relations. The pleasure connected with sex, like the satisfaction that goes with eating, is good, too, as long as it is taken for what it is—a means to an end.

Basing its objections on the natural law, the Church says that deliberately to frustrate the proper end of the sex act is contrary to right reason, is conduct unbecoming to rational beings and, for this reason, is immoral.

Birth prevention is regarded by Catholics as being evil in itself — circumstances can not change it into something morally good or indifferent. The natural law binds all men, Catholics and non-Catholics alike. Therefore, whenever there is a question of relaxing legislation on contraception (often put on the books, as in Massachusetts, not by Catholic but by Protestant legislators), Catholics will vote in accordance with their consciences.

Can one really expect an American to vote for a practice which he believes is against the law of God?

"Natural" birth control—the so-called rhythm theory—is permitted (as the Pope recently stated) in cases where undue medical or economic hardship makes family limitation imperative.

His Holiness, along with condemning artificial birth control, urged that the nations make greater efforts to support the present population of the world by opening underpopulated areas to immigration, by increasing food production, by sharing technical advances with the have-not nations and by developing more natural resources.

What actually happens in confession? Can a Catholic gain absolution for a sin, repeat the same sin and receive absolution repeatedly?

Confessions are usually heard in the boxlike "confessionals" found in every Catholic church. It is dark inside. Sometimes you can see the priest dimly. But often a white cloth is tacked to the grille separating priest and penitent. Before you enter the confessional, you prepare yourself by examining your conscience.

Inside, you kneel and whisper to the priest on the other side of the grille. You tell him how long it has been since your last confession. Then, as completely as you can, you name your sins, giving their number and such details as are necessary to supply a clear idea of what you did that was wrong.

When you finish, the priest usually says a few words of spiritual counsel and encouragement. Then he gives you your "penance." This is a certain number of prayers or prayerful acts that you must perform to signify your genuine sorrow and your resolution to do better.

You say the Act of Contrition, a formal prayer which expresses love for God, sorrow for sin and purpose of amendment." As you recite this prayer, you can hear the priest's words of absolution. The priest sends you out with a "God bless you" and usually asks you to pray for him, a sinner like yourself.

The Bible says that even the just man falls seven times a day, and it is true that Catholics, like other people, find themselves repeating the same old sins. But no one sins because he goes to confession regularly. If one does not intend to make a sincere effort to break sinful habits, there is no point in going to confession. A "bad confession" (where sins are withheld or where genuine sorrow or the "purpose of amendment" are not present) is considered invalid and sacrilegious.

What is the attitude of the Church toward drinking and gambling?

Neither is considered evil in itself, though both may become sinful by excess or abuse.

The Church approves total abstinence in the same way that it puts its approval upon voluntary celibacy. Both sex and alcoholic drinks are the creation of God; they may be forsworn but must not be condemned as intrinsically evil.

Gambling is regarded as an innocent pastime unless one or all of the following conditions are present: (a) The subject matter of the bet is sinful; (b) one party is forced to play; (c) one party is certain of the outcome; (d) one party is left in ignorance of the real terms of the gamble; (e) cheating and fraud are present; (f) the money staked is needed to pay debts or for the support of oneself or family; (g) the gambling game is forbidden by legitimate public authority.

Why do Catholics have their own schools? Do they seek financial support from public funds (including taxes paid by non-Catholics) for parochial schools?

American Catholics have made great sacrifices to build their own school system because they believe there is no ignorance as tragic as religious ignorance and that imparting a religious attitude related to life and learning is a seven-day-a-week, not a Sunday-morning, task.

Millions are spent on their parochial schools by Catholics. If they were closed down, many Americans would soon feel the difference in school taxes. Besides supporting their own schools, Catholics pay their full share of public-school taxes, as cheerfully as taxes are ever paid, because they believe that free public education should be available to all Americans who want it for their children.

Catholics have not sought support for their schools from public funds. When there was a question of providing such "auxiliary aids" as bus rides and school lunches from federal funds, Catholics asked that their children—not their schools!—share in the benefits.

Parochial schools actually mean lower taxes for everybody—because Catholics do not use the schools they pay for. If there is a tax issue in the parochial school question, this is it.

Why does the Church forbid Catholics to read or see certain books, plays and movies?

What a Catholic believes by faith, he believes absolutely. He is ready to take the Church's word on what constitutes a danger to this faith.

Catholics regard their Church as a moral teacher. When books, plays, movies, etc., are forbidden it is because it is the Church's judgment that, for the ordinary person, such books, plays, etc., may provide either a temptation to sin, a false religious understanding or a challenge to faith which he is not equipped to handle.

Many of the works on the index of forbidden books are theological studies written in good faith by devout Catholics; the Church has prescribed them because they contain some theological error.

In the case of clearly obscene books, there is the added obligation not to encourage immorality.

When pornography is not the issue, a Catholic may ask for permission (from a representative of the local bishop) to read a forbidden book or see a proscribed play. If it is felt he is sufficiently well-instructed to meet the challenge to his faith, and there is good reason for his request, the permission is readily granted.

Do Catholics believe in religious tolerance?

American Catholics believe in and practice religious tolerance, as their Protestant and Jewish neighbors amply testify. There are bigots in the Church, as in every group, but this is a psychological failing of individuals, not something that derives from Catholic belief.

In certain Catholic countries (as in a few Protestant countries), religious tolerance is not whole heartedly accepted as a political idea. On the other hand, the Catholic can point to a country like Eire, where not long ago a Protestant was elected president. Even in the United States, it is doubtful whether a Catholic, or a Jew, could reach the White House.

Often by "religious tolerance" is understood something more properly called "religious indifferentism"—the idea that "one religion is as good (or as bad) as another." This is a proposition which Catholics cannot accept. It should not be imposed on American citizens as a test of patriotism—especially in the name of tolerance!

If by tolerance is meant living in peace with one's neighbor, making no attempts to interfere with his religious practices and recognizing his civil right to pick his own church (or no church), then the record of American Catholics is second to none.

On this score, Catholics have probably been more sinned against than sinning, what with the Know-Nothing movement, the Ku Klux Klan, the Al Smith campaign.

The Catholic Church is an authoritarian institution. Does this contradict democratic principle?

The Church is a religious, not a political, society. Democracy is a system of government in which each man is free to serve God—that is, to acknowledge the authority of God—according to his own conscience. How can one "contradict democratic principle" by following the religious dictates of his conscience?

THE SUMMER STAGE

Next at Woodstock: "The Rainmaker"

A lonely girl's quest for romance on a drouth stricken ranch, is the theme of "The Rainmaker" the gentle comedy of the west, to be presented Tuesday, July 19 at the Woodstock Playhouse. The play runs through Sunday, July 24. R. Richard Nash's lively earthy story, interspersed with the tender romantic ideals of a young girl, was acclaimed by critics during the 1954 theatre season in New York. The "rainmaker" is a con man whose grandiose dreams help to fulfill the wishes of the lusty ranch family.

Mary James, who played Georgie in last season's production of "Country Girl", will be the lovelorn Lizzie. Popular Frank Daly, who has been in all previous productions at the Playhouse this season, will play the role of Noah, Lizzie's rigid brother. Robert Alvin plays Curry, Lizzie's gentle father.

James Karen returns to join the Woodstock company in the part of Starbuck, the dreamer who promises to bring rain. Karen will be remembered as the enterprising Ensign Pulver in last year's "Mr. Roberts."

John Kerr is taking time off from his ever increasing motion picture schedule to play the two roles of the twins in "Ring Round the Moon" at the Hyde Park Playhouse, starting Tuesday, July 19. He will be supported by a cast headed by Allyn McLerie, the Aimee of "Where's Charlie?" of a few seasons back. Miss McLerie, who was also featured in "Miss Liberty", will take the role of Lady India.

Jocelyn Brando will play the ballerina, Isabella, Lucie Lancaster has been cast as Madame Desmortes, Margaret Barker as Capulet, Wolfe Barzell as Messerscham and Mary Finney as Mother. Logan Ramsey is Patrice, Charles V. White as Romainville and Richard B. Shull as the butler, Joshua.

The original costumes from the Broadway production have been acquired for the presentation at Hyde Park. Director of the Anouilh-Fry fantasy is Fred Sadoff. Settings will be designed by Edgar Lansbury.

"Dial M for Murder" at Cragsmoor

Peter Pagan plays the cunning villain in "Dial M for Murder" which opened Wednesday, July 13 at the Cragsmoor Playhouse, 5 miles southeast of Ellenville, on Route 52. Mr. Pagan has been a leading actor in both Australia and England, appearing in theatre, radio and films. He has also been a resident actor with the famous Bristol Old Vic Company.

"Dial M for Murder" is a chilling old-fashioned melodrama in a modern setting. The husband decides to do away with his wife. He devises one of the most diabolical and shrewd alibi-murders to be seen on the stage in a long time. When his original plot goes awry, he devises another even more fool-proof. He nearly gets away with it and the seemingly-simple plot has twists and surprises in it.

Concert at Hutton Park

The Kingston Concert Band moves to Hutton Park for a concert Tuesday evening, second in the summer series of city park performances. The concert will be from 8 to 10 p. m.

The program, announced by Sal Castiglione, director, will include: The Star Spangled Banner, The Pride of America, march, by Goldman; Land of the Sun, overture, by Paulson; Blaze Away, march, by Holzmann; Sunbeam, overture, by Olivadoli; New Colonial, march, by Hall; Humoresque, Opus 101, No. 7 by Dvorak; The IBA, march, by Waters.

Chamber Orchestra Concerts at Tanglewood

The two final programs in this season's Berkshire Festival series of Chamber Orchestra concerts by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be given in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., tonight at 8:30 p. m. and tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p. m. For these two programs Charles Munch has chosen works by Italian and French composers respectively.

Tonight's all-Italian concert will feature three works by the famed "Red Priest" of 18th century composition, Antonio Vivaldi —his Concerti Grossi Numbers 10 and 11 from the Opus 3 set called "L'Estro Armonico" (Harmonic Inspiration), and the "Gloria" Mass in D Major (which Hugh Ross will conduct). The Berkshire Festival Chorus will assist in the performance of the "Gloria," along with Saramae Endich, who sang here in Community Concert, soprano, and Sadie Ruth McCollum, mezzo-soprano, both students at the Berkshire Music Center. In addition to the Vivaldi works, the concert will also include Boccherini's Cello Concerto in B Flat, with the Boston Symphony's first cellist, Samuel Mayes, as soloist. All but the D Minor Vivaldi Concerto Grosso (No. 11) will be given their first Tanglewood performances.

Sunday's all-French concert, which will also be conducted by Mr. Munch, will be comprised of a Suite from the opera "Dardanus" by Rameau; Ravel's orchestral suite, "Le Tombeau de Couperin;" the Pavane by Gabriel Faure; Milhaud's "Serenade" for Small Orchestra (also known as the Symphony No. 3); and the Symphony No. 4 by Artur Honegger. The Faure, Milhaud and Honegger compositions will be performed for the first time at Tanglewood.

Commencing next weekend, July 22 and 23 evenings, July 24 afternoon, the entire 104-piece Boston Symphony Orchestra will assemble at Tanglewood to inaugurate the season's concerts in the 6,000-seat Music Shed, which Mr. Munch will open on Friday evening, July 22, with an all-Beethoven program with Isaac Stern as violin soloist.

Good Taste Today

DO WE HAVE TO BE INTRODUCED?

The following question is asked from time to time by my readers: "Is it always proper to speak to fellow guests in a friend's house, or must you first be introduced?"

The supposition is that the roof of a friend's house serves as an introduction, but at a very large party, such as a dance, or at a formal tea or wedding reception, it is not customary to speak with those whom you don't know, unless you and a stranger find yourself apart from the others. In such a case you perhaps remark that "the bride is lovely" or you comment upon the weather. Whether to talk or not depends more upon mutual willingness than upon any other rule. There are certain circumstances when you must speak to your neighbors whether you have been introduced or not. You always talk with your fellow players at the bridge table, and you must talk to those next to you at lunch or dinner, whether or not you are strangers. To sit side by side at table without speaking is one of the rudest things you can do to your hostess.

Gift From Fellow Employes

Dear Mrs. Post: About a month ago I quit the job I had for three years to take another position. When I left the people with whom I worked gave me a lovely necklace and earring set. The new job did not work out and my ex-boss has asked me to come back to my old job. I would like to know what I am supposed to do about the necklace and earring set. Should I offer to return it or do I just keep it and say nothing about it? Please advise me, Mrs. Post, as I am rather embarrassed over this.

Answer: You keep it and wear it with pride!

You do not need to be afraid to serve a dinner without help. Mrs. Post's booklet No. 503, includes full details to help you serve and also enjoy your guests. JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Experts, Too, Can Blow Right Bids

South should have been playing today's hand at five clubs instead of three no-trump. At game in clubs South would have lost a club and the ace of diamonds, but nothing else.

The trouble is that good bidders will practically never get to five clubs with the North-South cards. Who wants to work for 11 tricks for game when a nine-trick game seems equally probable?

Sad though this may be, South found himself in three no-trump with a heart opening lead. South noted that he had a slam in clubs if the finesse were successful, but that he might go down at three no-trump if the club finesse lost. Then he put vain regrets behind him and proceeded to play the hand.

South won the first trick with the king of hearts and tried the club finesse. Back came another heart, and South won with the ace.

South now ran the rest of the clubs, getting a little help from West. It wasn't that West made the wrong discards; it was just that West drew a blueprint for South. When declarer led the third club, West properly discarded a spade. East also discarded, and it should have been clear to West that he had to think of two more discards on the clubs.

West didn't do any thinking, but casually discarded the low diamond on the fourth club. He didn't do any worrying until the fifth club was led. Then he didn't want to part with a heart or with the ace of diamonds for the best of reasons. He reluctantly discarded a second spade, whereupon South took the top spades to drop the queen. Declarer then took a ninth trick with the jack of spades, making his contract.

West should have seen his problem earlier. Then he could have discarded two spades casually, followed by an equally casual low diamond. South, with no clue to the situation, would have taken the king of spades and would then have finessed the jack of spades, losing six tricks.

In a case where doctors agree at a mother may die during ildbirth, must Catholic doctors ve the child rather than the other?
No. The Cathoilc doctor is und to make every effort to ve both. Both mother and child ive an inherent right to life. either may be killed so the her can live. This is the answer e Church has to give either to grief-stricken young husband ho needs the help of his wife in ising a family, or to a royal gure who feels a greater need r a son and heir than for his een. Directly to take the life an innocent is never per-itted—even as a means to a od end.
The question, incidentally, is rgely academic. Statistics show at maternity deaths in the na-on's Catholic hospitals are as w as any.
Why don't priests and nuns arry?
For hundreds of years, the estern Church has required at its clergy remain unmarried. his is a disciplinary matter hich could (but undoubtedly on't) be changed overnight.
The rule leaves priests wholly ee from the responsibilities of mily life for pastoral and mis-onary work. It is wholehearted-accepted by the clergy and is pular with the Catholic laity.
Nuns and monks take a vow chastity — not because they spise marriage and human love it in order to dedicate them-lves wholly to the service of od in a religious order.
Nuns (and those monks who ive not received priestly or-rs) may marry with the urch's blessing any time they e dispensed from their vows by e proper authority. But as long they choose to remain in the oister, nuns and monks are bliged to observe the life of verty, chastity and obedience which they have freely edi-ted themselves.
Incidentally, thousands of tholic priests are married. ey are members of the East-n rites, in union with Rome. nong these Catholics, it is cus-mary to ordain married men, ough second marriages are bidden.
Why does the Catholic Church pose birth control? Why does e Church oppose the dissemi-tion of birth control informa-n among non-Catholics (as in assachusetts voting?)
The Catholic position on birth ntrol is based on the belief at (a) artificial contraception against the law of God, and) because it is immoral, it can-t be employed as a means, en to a good end.
Strictly speaking, it is arti-al birth prevention (by means contraceptive devices, chemi-s, etc.) which the Church con-nns as intrinsically evil. The per end of the sex act is pro-ation. The physical expression love is surely good but is sub-linated to the ultimate reason sexual relations. The pleas-connected with sex, like the isfaction that goes with eat-, is good, too, as long as it is en for what it is—a means an end.
Basing its objections on the tural law, the Church says at deliberately to frustrate the oper end of the sex act is con-ary to right reason, is conduct ibecoming to rational beings d, for this reason, is immoral. Birth prevention is regarded Catholics as being evil in it-lf — circumstances can not ange it into something morally od or indifferent. The natural w binds all men, Catholics and n-Catholics alike. Therefore, henever there is a question of laxing legislation on contra-ption (often put on the books, in Massachusetts, not by itholic but by Protestant legis-tors), Catholics will vote in ac-rdance with their consciences.
Can one really expect an nerican to vote for a practice hich he believes is against the w of God?
"Natural" birth control — the -called rhythm theory—is per-itted (as the Pope recently ated) in cases where undue edical or economic hardship akes family limitation impera-ve.
His Holiness, along with con-mning artificial birth control, ged that the nations make eater efforts to support the esent population of the world opening underpopulated areas immigration, by increasing od production, by sharing tech-cal advances with the have-not tions and by developing more tural resources.
What actually happens in con-ssion? Can a Catholic gain ab-lution for a sin, repeat the me sin and receive absolution peatedly?
Confessions are usually heard the boxlike "confessionals" nd in every Catholic church. is dark inside. Sometimes u can see the priest dimly. But en a white cloth is tacked to e grille separating priest and nitent. Before you enter the nfessional, you prepare your-f by examining your con-ence.
Inside, you kneel and whisper the priest on the other side the grille. You tell him how g it has been since your last nfession. Then, as completely you can, you name your sins, ing their number and such de-ls as are necessary to supply clear idea of what you did it was wrong.
When you finish, the priest ually says a few words of spir-al counsel and encouragement. en he gives you your "pen-ce." This is a certain number prayers or prayerful acts it you must perform to signify ir genuine sorrow and your olution to do better.
You say the Act of Contrition, ormal prayer which expresses e for God, sorrow for sin and rpose of amendment." As recite this prayer, you can r the priest's words of abso-on. The priest sends you out h a "God bless you" and ally asks you to pray for him, a sinner like yourself.
The Bible says that even the just man falls seven times a day, and it is true that Catholics, like other people, find themselves repeating the same old sins. But no one sins because he goes to confession regularly. If one does not intend to make a sincere effort to break sinful habits, there is no point in going to confession. A "bad confession" (where sins are withheld or where genuine sorrow or the "purpose of amendment" are not present) is considered invalid and sacrilegious.
What is the attitude of the Church toward drinking and gambling?
Neither is considered evil in itself, though both may become sinful by excess or abuse.
The Church approves total abstinence in the same way that it puts its approval upon voluntary celibacy. Both sex and alcoholic drinks are the creation of God; they may be forsworn but must not be condemned as intrinsically evil.
Gambling is regarded as an innocent pastime unless one or all of the following conditions are present: (a) The subject matter of the bet is sinful; (b) one party is forced to play; (c) one party is certain of the outcome; (d) one party is left in ignorance of the real terms of the gamble; (e) cheating and fraud are present; (f) the money staked is needed to pay debts or for the support of oneself or family; (g) the gambling game is forbidden by legitimate public authority.
Why do Catholics have their own schools? Do they seek financial support from public funds (including taxes paid by non-Catholics) for parochial schools?
American Catholics have made great sacrifices to build their own school system because they believe there is no ignorance as tragic as religious ignorance and that imparting a religious attitude related to life and learning is a seven-day-a-week, not a Sunday-morning, task.
Millions are spent on their parochial schools by Catholics. If they were closed down, many Americans would soon feel the difference in school taxes. Besides supporting their own schools, Catholics pay their full share of public-school taxes, as cheerfully as taxes are ever paid, because they believe that free public education should be available to all Americans who want it for their children.
Catholics have not sought support for their schools from public funds. When there was a question of providing such "auxiliary aids" as bus rides and school lunches from federal funds, Catholics asked that their children—not their schools!—share in the benefits.
Parochial schools actually mean lower taxes for everybody—because Catholics do not use the schools they pay for. If there is a tax issue in the parochial school question, this is it.
Why does the Church forbid Catholics to read or see certain books, plays and movies?
What a Catholic believes by faith, he believes absolutely. He is ready to take the Church's word on what constitutes a danger to this faith.
Catholics regard their Church as a moral teacher. When books, plays, movies, etc., are forbidden it is because it is the Church's judgment that, for the ordinary person, such books, plays, etc., may provide either a temptation to sin, a false religious understanding or a challenge to faith which he is not equipped to handle.
Many of the works on the index of forbidden books are theological studies written in good faith by devout Catholics; the Church has prescribed them because they contain some theological error.
In the case of clearly obscene books, there is the added obligation not to encourage immorality.
When pornography is not the issue, a Catholic may ask for permission (from a representative of the local bishop) to read a forbidden book or see a proscribed play. If it is felt he is sufficiently well-instructed to meet the challenge to his faith, and there is good reason for his request, the permission is readily granted.
Do Catholics believe in religious tolerance?
American Catholics believe in and practice religious tolerance, as their Protestant and Jewish neighbors amply testify. There are bigots in the Church, as in every group, but this is a psychological failing of individuals, not something that derives from Catholic belief.
In certain Catholic countries (as in a few Protestant countries), religious tolerance is not whole heartedly accepted as a political idea. On the other hand, the Catholic can point to a country like Eire, where not long ago a Protestant was elected president. Even in the United States, it is doubtful whether a Catholic, or a Jew, could reach the White House.
Often by "religious tolerance" is understood something more properly called "religious indifferentism"—the idea that "one religion is as good (or as bad) as another." This is a proposition which Catholics cannot accept. It should not be imposed on American citizens as a test of patriotism—especially in the name of tolerance!
If by tolerance is meant living in peace with one's neighbor, making no attempts to interfere with his religious practices and recognizing his civil right to pick his own church (or no church), then the record of American Catholics is second to none.
On this score, Catholics have probably been more sinned against than sinning, what with the Know-Nothing movement, the Ku Klux Klan, the Al Smith campaign.
The Catholic Church is an authoritarian institution. Does this contradict democratic principle?
The Church is a religious, not a political, society. Democracy is a system of government in which each man is free to serve God—that is, to acknowledge the authority of God—according to his own conscience. How can one "contradict democratic principle" by following the religious dictates of his conscience?

THE SUMMER STAGE

Next at Woodstock: "The Rainmaker"

A lonely girl's quest for romance on a drouth stricken ranch, is the theme of "The Rainmaker" the gentle comedy of the west, to be presented Tuesday, July 19 at the Woodstock Playhouse. The play runs through Sunday, July 24. R. Richard Nash's lively earthy story, interspersed with the tender romantic ideals of a young girl, was acclaimed by critics during the 1954 theatre season in New York. The "rainmaker" is a con man whose grandiose dreams help to fulfill the wishes of the lusty ranch family.

Mary James, who played Georgie in last season's production of "Country Girl", will be the lovelorn Lizzie. Popular Frank Daly, who has been in all previous productions at the Playhouse this season, will play the role of Noah, Lizzie's rigid brother. Robert Alvin plays Curry, Lizzie's gentle father.

James Karen returns to join the Woodstock company in the part of Starbuck, the dreamer who promises to bring rain. Karen will be remembered as the enterprising Ensign Pulver in last year's "Mr. Roberts."

John Kerr is taking time off from his ever increasing motion picture schedule to play the two roles of the twins in "Ring Round the Moon" at the Hyde Park Playhouse, starting Tuesday, July 19. He will be supported by a cast headed by Allyn McLerie, the Aimee of "Where's Charlie?" of a few seasons back. Miss McLerie, who was also featured in "Miss Liberty", will take the role of Lady India.

Jocelyn Brando will play the ballerina, Isabella, Lucie Lancaster has been cast as Madame Desmortes, Margaret Barker as Capulet, Wolfe Barzell as Messerscham and Mary Finney as Mother. Logan Ramsey is Patrice, Charles V. White as Romainville and Richard B. Shull as the butler, Joshua.

The original costumes from the Broadway production have been acquired for the presentation at Hyde Park. Director of the Anouilh-Fry fantasy is Fred Sadoff. Settings will be designed by Edgar Lansbury.

"Dial M for Murder" at Cragsmoor

Peter Pagan plays the cunning villain in "Dial M for Murder" which opened Wednesday, July 13 at the Cragsmoor Playhouse, 5 miles southeast of Ellenville, on Route 52. Mr. Pagan has been a leading actor in both Australia and England, appearing in theatre, radio and films. He has also been a resident actor with the famous Bristol Old Vic Company.

"Dial M for Murder" is a chilling old-fashioned melodrama in a modern setting. The husband decides to do away with his wife. He devises one of the most diabolical and shrewd alibi-murders to be seen on the stage in a long time. When his original plot goes awry, he devises another even more fool-proof. He nearly gets away with it and the seemingly-simple plot has twists and surprises in it.

Concert at Hutton Park

The Kingston Concert Band moves to Hutton Park for a concert Tuesday evening, second in the summer series of city park performances. The concert will be from 8 to 10 p. m.

The program, announced by Sal Castiglione, director, will include: The Star Spangled Banner, The Pride of America, march, by Goldman; Land of the Sun, overture, by Paulson; Blaze Away, march, by Holzmann; Sunbeam, overture, by Olivadoli; New Colonial, march, by Hall; Humoresque, Opus 101, No. 7 by Dvorak; The IBA, march, by Waters.

Chamber Orchestra Concerts at Tanglewood

The two final programs in this season's Berkshire Festival series of Chamber Orchestra concerts by members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra will be given in the Theatre-Concert Hall at Tanglewood, Lenox, Mass., tonight at 8:30 p. m. and tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p. m. For these two programs Charles Munch has chosen works by Italian and French composers respectively.

Tonight's all-Italian concert will feature three works by the famed "Red Priest" of 18th century composition, Antonio Vivaldi —his Concerti Grossi Numbers 10 and 11 from the Opus 3 set called "L'Estro Armonico" (Harmonic Inspiration), and the "Gloria" Mass in D Major (which Hugh Ross will conduct). The Berkshire Festival Chorus will assist in the performance of the "Gloria," along with Saramae Endich, who sang here in Community Concert, soprano, and Sadie Ruth McCollum, mezzo-soprano, both students at the Berkshire Music Center. In addition to the Vivaldi works, the concert will also include Boccherini's Cello Concerto in B Flat, with the Boston Symphony's first cellist, Samuel Mayes, as soloist. All but the D Minor Vivaldi Concerto Grosso (No. 11) will be given their first Tanglewood performances.

Sunday's all-French concert, which will also be conducted by Mr. Munch, will be comprised of a Suite from the opera "Dardanus" by Rameau; Ravel's orchestral suite, "Le Tombeau de Couperin;" the Pavane by Gabriel Faure; Milhaud's "Serenade" for Small Orchestra (also known as the Symphony No. 3); and the Symphony No. 4 by Artur Honegger. The Faure, Milhaud and Honegger compositions will be performed for the first time at Tanglewood.

Commencing next weekend, July 22 and 23 evenings, July 24 afternoon, the entire 104-piece Boston Symphony Orchestra will assemble at Tanglewood to inaugurate the season's concerts in the 6,000-seat Music Shed, which Mr. Munch will open on Friday evening, July 22, with an all-Beethoven program with Isaac Stern as violin soloist.

Good Taste Today

DO WE HAVE TO BE INTRODUCED?

The following question is asked from time to time by my readers: "Is it always proper to speak to fellow guests in a friend's house, or must you first be introduced?"

The supposition is that the roof of a friend's house serves as an introduction, but at a very large party, such as a dance, or at a formal tea or wedding reception, it is not customary to speak with those whom you don't know, unless you and a stranger find yourself apart from the others. In such a case you perhaps remark that "the bride is lovely" or you comment upon the weather. Whether to talk or not depends more upon mutual willingness than upon any other rule. There are certain circumstances when you must speak to your neighbors whether you have been introduced or not. You always talk with your fellow players at the bridge table, and you must talk to those next to you at lunch or dinner, whether or not you are strangers. To sit side by side at table without speaking is one of the rudest things you can do to your hostess.

Gift From Fellow Employes

Dear Mrs. Post: About a month ago I quit the job I had for three years to take another position. When I left the people with whom I worked gave me a lovely necklace and earring set. The new job did not work out and my ex-boss has asked me to come back to my old job. I would like to know what I am supposed to do about the necklace and earring set. Should I offer to return it or do I just keep it and say nothing about it? Please advise me, Mrs. Post, as I am rather embarrassed over this.

Answer: You keep it and wear it with pride!

You do not need to be afraid to serve a dinner without help. Mrs. Post's booklet No. 503, includes full details to help you serve and also enjoy your guests. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy send 25 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Experts, Too, Can Blow Right Bids

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

South should have been playing today's hand at five clubs instead of three no-trump. At game in clubs South would have lost a club and the ace of diamonds, but nothing else.

The trouble is that good bidders will practically never get to five clubs with the North-South cards. Who wants to work for 11 tricks for game when a nine-trick game seems equally probable?

Sad though this may be, South found himself in three no-trump with a heart opening lead. South noted that he had a slam in clubs if the finesse were successful, but that he might go down at three no-trump if the club finesse lost. Then he put vain regrets behind him and proceeded to play the hand.

South won the first trick with the king of hearts and tried the club finesse. Back came another heart, and South won with the ace.

South now ran the rest of the clubs, getting a little help from West. It wasn't that West made the wrong discards; it was just that West drew a blueprint for South. When declarer led the third club, West properly discarded a spade. East also discarded, and it should have been clear to West that he had to think of two more discards on the clubs.

West didn't do any thinking, but casually discarded the low diamond on the fourth club. He didn't do any worrying until the fifth club was led. Then he didn't want to part with a heart or with the ace of diamonds for the best of reasons. He reluctantly discarded a second spade, whereupon South took the top spades to drop the queen. Declarer then took a ninth trick with the jack of spades, making his contract.

West should have seen his problem earlier. Then he could have discarded two spades casually, followed by an equally casual low diamond. South, with no clue to the situation, would have taken the king of spades and would then have finessed the jack of spades, losing six tricks.

Local Business Men Suggest Travel Aid

Woodstock, July 15—It has been recently suggested by the membership of the Woodstock Business Association that inasmuch as many Woodstock visitors stop to obtain information and a brochure at the Information Center, that it might be equally helpful if Woodstockers visiting other communities seek information from information centers or the local Chambers of Commerce in other towns.

Anyone who has obtained such information is invited to let the Woodstock Business Association know how they had been served, and in return the WBA will write a letter of thanks to that organization, and send them a brochure telling about Woodstock.

The WBA would also be happy to receive the names of friends or relatives of Woodstockers, in order that Ed Bauman, secretary of the WBA, may send them copies of the brochure. It is entitled "Invitation to Woodstock" and will be sent free of charge to anyone suggested.

LITTER IN PUBLIC PLACES

Cleanliness is next to Godliness is a rule that should be remembered and practiced by many more people. Life would be much more pleasant today if more people were inclined to abide by the adage.

This is a good season for its application, when families seeking recreation travel our highways to visit favorite outdoor spots to relax. The parks in our community and Kingston Point Beach now attract their largest attendances.

If someone in every car throws out one bit of waste, pretty soon the whole roadside is messed up with orange peels, banana skins, broken bottles, paper and all such trash. Nobody enjoys a ride on such a highway or enjoys eating a lunch in comfort at any roadside table littered about like that.

The same thing applies to parks and bathing beaches. The City of Kingston spends the taxpayers money to beautify and to make these public places safe and sanitary and pleasant for the people to enjoy. And what happens? As soon as the people gather the place is littered. Receptacles for discarded material are not used. Some people are too lazy or slovenly to take a few steps to place the waste material in a container. The moronic practic of breaking bottles in these public places should be stopped. A few heavy fines might help.

It is too bad that the few must spoil it for the many who try to make it nice for people. However, there are always lots of other people trying to do what is right and that helps.

The business executive who serves as purchasing agent, dietitian, fashion consultant, child care specialist and maintenance chief is a person highly sought for such talents—and, in mother, every home has one.

PROSPEROUS DAYS

Business is pretty good—in fact, by the nation-wide yardsticks of economists and big businesmen, it is phenomenally good. Employment, production of goods, building and selling are all on the upward swing. As far as the wise heads can predict, things will continue to improve for most American families and for the country as a whole.

But the government worries a little about inflation and where the road is leading. It is putting "slow down" controls on such financial ingredients as mortgage money, stock buying procedure and bank loans.

The business observers in government are advising people not to get too ambitious, not to assume that the speed of recent gains will go on at the same rate, not to go soaring off to a level of borrowing or speculation that might be risky if the economic weather should change.

The same advice holds for every family. It is a good time to plan ahead and hope and work toward some family dreams. But it is also a good time to save money and be sure and think long before taking any big financial plunge.

There are some people everyone knows who ought to realize that we already have plenty of hot air this time of the year. We don't need anyone trying hard to produce more.

JOB FOR THE STATES

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States finds that "states and local communities can better provide for their school needs than the federal government can."

The reason for that is that the Federal government has a back-breaking debt and is running in the red, while most of the states are well in the black. As of a comparatively recent date, the 48 states had $15,250,000,000 in cash and security holdings against less than $8,000,000,000 of outstanding debt.

It's high time that federal hand-outs to the states for schools or any other purpose were reduced—not increased. And it's beyond argument that federal fiscal problems will never be solved until there is a resurgence of the traditional American idea that local people and local government should take care of local needs.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE SIGN OF THE BULL

The latest complaint to come my way is about bull-fighting. Bull itself has long been with us, particularly in the form of oratory. Apparently some promoters are planning to introduce the bull-fight into American life. About everything else has been so introduced, including the Japanese beetle, the Dutch Elm disease, hepatitis, the Communist Party, the shape of Gina Lollobrigida, pastrami and bagel and lox.

The culture of all the world flocks to us. We eat chop suey and believe that it is Chinese food and we go mad about pizza pies. We are now being subjected to a pressure to consume gin and tonic and for a while our great intellects were moved by Existentialism. We get excited when Molotov smirks, although most of our politicians have themselves photographed smiling because the photographer tells them to smile, whether it is, at the moment, necessary or not. Nehru reacts to the synthetic smile with customary neutralism; he frowns.

Dog races have not gone too well in this country for some reason; perhaps because they are not sufficiently interesting to enough people. That mechanical rabbit is a stupid thing for a dog to chase, and American dogs are not stupid. Golf comes and goes as a sport, depending upon how much extra money one has on hand. Apparently it is an attractive sport even when a President prefers to play the piano.

The prize-fights are becoming a television attraction, although they still pack some halls. The point is that the fighters are not attractive personalities. There is nobody on hand like John L. Sullivan or Jim Corbett or Gene Tunney or even Joe Louis. The present gang simply do not stir men's souls.

Will a bull do better? It is hard to say from a strictly business standpoint. The humane societies will attack bull-fighting and will undoubtedly put private eyes on the promoters to discover a scandal, such as feeding the bulls locoweed or some other concoction.

It is a little difficult for me to understand why the humane societies should care more for bulls than for humans. Why don't they get after the prize-fighters who batter each other until they become idiots, although that surely did not happen to Gene Tunney or Jack Dempsey who seem to be endowed with as much brains as most and Gene, to my certain knowledge, with more than usual. Maybe fighting did these giants some good.

The bull is an animal that produces very tough meat unless properly fed and cured. As a fighter, he makes a noise like Vishinsky and rushes about like John Foster Dulles. I am no judge of his fighting ability but it seems to me that anyone with such power ought to be able to stomp out any tiny human who stands up to him. I am told that the characters out of "Carmen" lick the bull by great skill, which is a demonstration of mind over matter. But do bull-fighters really have minds? If so, why do they not think out a better way of earning a living? Who wants to dwell among sawdust and entrails?

The promoters of bull-fighting are not, of course, sporting gentlemen who go into this thing to improve the breed of the bull. They are entrepreneurs, seeking to make a fast buck from a novelty. They will be joined by real estate men who want to build arenas and by bankers who want to finance propositions and by concessionaires who look for new markets for hot dogs.

So we shall have another pressure group, fixing local officials and underwriting election campaigns and building up local support for favored candidates who will stand by the bull as the Prohibitionists were encouraged by the soft-drink gentry. And the humane societies will set up another pressure group to fight the bull-fight people. And there will be Federal and State financiers who will see a new source of taxes and they will get legislation through taxing the bull as they tax everything else. And then there will be a Congressional investigation to discover monopoly and corruption and Frank Costello, who probably never saw a bull, will be accused of owning the entire business under an assumed name. And Estes Kefauver will be a candidate for the Presidency.

So, let's stick to baseball.

OPENING UP HEART FOR OPERATION

During the last 10 years surgery upon the heart has been receiving great attention as more and more daring and successful operations are being performed, which would have been undreamed of just a few years ago. These operations have been performed by what is called a "blind technic" which means that the surgeon cannot see exactly what he is doing because of the flow of blood within the heart but must feel with his fingers what the defect may be and repair it as best he can. Many lives considered hopeless have been rescued in this manner.

With new methods, it is now possible to interrupt the flow of blood through the heart and thus allow the surgeon to repair certain defects which he can see. This new type of surgery has been accomplished with the use of heart-lung machines, cross circulation and hypothemia (lowering of the body temperature.) Dr. F. John Lewis, Associate Professor of Surgery at Minnesota Medical School, tells of the use of this latter method in doing heart surgery.

When the body temperature is lowered, the metabolic rate (rate at which all the body processes are working) is reduced. When the body processes are slowed down, less oxygen is required (to get oxygen the blood must travel from the heart to the lungs) and hence it is possible to shut off the flow of the blood vessels in the heart for a much longer period than it is possible at normal temperature. Thus, the inflow channels of the heart may be blocked and a dry heart field obtained long enough—up to 10 minutes—to close such defects as may exist in the heart walls carefully with stitches.

The patient is given an anesthetic of Pentothal sodium and curare. Cooling is done by wrapping the patient in refrigerating blankets made of two layers of rubberized cloth and between the layers is sewn a long rubber tube. The blankets are cooled by pumping an alcohol solution at 25 degrees Fahrenheit. Enough anesthetic is given to prevent shivering. In from one to three and one-half hours, the patient's temperature falls to 86 degrees F., from the normal of 96.6. At this point cooling is discontinued and the operation is started. The temperatures, however, continue to fall until it reaches a level of 79 to 82 degrees F. at about the time the operation is to begin.

The total period of time of interruption of the circulation has varied from three and three-quarters to seven and three-quarter minutes. During the operation the refrigerating blankets remain beneath the patient but the liquid they carry has been heated to produce a slow rising in body temperature which is accelerated, after the chest is closed, by placing the patient in a bath of hot water.

It may likely be that a future generation will consider such methods primitive but at this stage in our evolution it is a wonderful thing for the heart surgeon to be able to shut off the blood for the short period necessary to carry out heart repairs with a clear field of vision.

All the World---Well, Almost All---Loves a Lover

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — President Eisenhower believes that the prestige of the United States is at stake in the development of his atomic peace ship idea. He has given this relatively minor project a high priority on his "must list" of legislation he wants passed before Congress adjourns this year.

Congress turned down his idea in the atomic energy funds authorization legislation for the current fiscal year. But the vote in the Senate was close—42 to 41. So the President isn't taking this for a final answer.

He was hoping he would again be asked about this project at his press conference on July 6. But nobody brought it up and the President didn't volunteer a statement.

He was ready with some new arguments in support of his pet plan, however. And it can be authoritatively stated that the basis of his argument is the need to maintain American atoms-for-peace leadership.

President Eisenhower is said to feel it would be a severe loss of face to this country if another nation were the first to develop an atomic ship.

COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA has attempted to put over the idea that the United States was using its atomic energy resources for the development of bombs, atomic artillery, submarines and guided missile warheads.

A recent public opinion poll taken in western Europe revealed a belief that the Russians were doing more in developing peaceful uses of atomic energy through moving countains and rivers for nonmilitary pursuits.

This would be in spite of American promotion of the Geneva conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy and the American offer to bear half the costs of research reactor development in friendly countries.

The possibility of a friendly country developing the atomic ship first, even with American aid, is viewed in the same light as the Russians developing it first, in international rivalry. Canada, Great Britain, Belgium, France, Australia, India, East Germany and Czechoslovakia all have access to atomic ores.

THE DIFFICULTY in obtaining information on what other countries may be doing in atomic energy ship propulsion is cited as another reason for starting the American effort now.

The idea that there was any international rivalry in the atomic ship plan was not presented to the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Congress turned it down because it was considered impractical and uneconomic.

The President's position is that the higher initial construction costs and higher operating costs for an atomic ship should not be the determining factors. The value of the ship is said to be in its propaganda and prestige.

White House officials say the President's idea has captured popular imagination. A considerable volume of mail and phone calls has come in, supporting the project and wanting to know what could be done to push it. One correspondent sent in a small check to start a fund to build the ship.

Needless to say, these developments have not dampened the President's ardor for his pet idea. He still has hopes Congress will approve it this year.

WHILE SENATOR Clinton P. Anderson (D-New Mex.), chairman of the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy says the President's atomic peace ship idea is dead for this session of Congress there are still a couple of long chances that the idea will be revived.

Rep. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) originally an opponent of what he called the "atomic showboat," is reconsidering his position and may introduce a new proposal. His idea now is to take an existing hull and install an atomic-powered engine which could also be used as a floating power plant.

It could tour the world and generate electric current from its atomic boiler and power plant. This would demonstrate the effectiveness of the rapidly developing atomic power industry. One of the original objections to the President's proposal was that in using an existing atomic engine like the one in the Nautilus, nothing new would be learned or demonstrated.

Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-N. C.) chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee, has still another idea. He has introduced a new bill to build one new atom-powered ship of merchant vessel size. He has dropped an earlier idea to build two atomic ships—one small museum ship such as the President proposed, and a larger merchant vessel.

Senator Anderson now leans to the idea that eventually two ships should be built of different designs, to advance experimentation and speed up developments that would put the United States in the lead in a new race for atomic supremacy on the seas.

LITTER IN PUBLIC PLACES

Cleanliness is next to Godliness is a rule that should be remembered and practiced by many more people. Life would be much more pleasant today if more people were inclined to abide by the adage.

This is a good season for its application, when families seeking recreation travel our highways to visit favorite outdoor spots to relax. The parks in our community and Kingston Point Beach now attract their largest attendances.

If someone in every car throws out one bit of waste, pretty soon the whole roadside is messed up with orange peels, banana skins, broken bottles, paper and all such trash. Nobody enjoys a ride on such a highway or enjoys eating a lunch in comfort at any roadside table littered about like that.

The same thing applies to parks and bathing beaches. The City of Kingston spends the taxpayers money to beautify and to make these public places safe and sanitary and pleasant for the people to enjoy. And what happens? As soon as the people gather the place is littered. Receptacles for discarded material are not used. Some people are too lazy or slovenly to take a few steps to place the waste material in a container. The moronic practic of breaking bottles in these public places should be stopped. A few heavy fines might help.

It is too bad that the few must spoil it for the many who try to make it nice for people. However, there are always lots of other people trying to do what is right and that helps.

The business executive who serves as purchasing agent, dietitian, fashion consultant, child care specialist and maintenance chief is a person highly sought for such talents—and, in mother, every home has one.

PROSPEROUS DAYS

Business is pretty good—in fact, by the nation-wide yardsticks of economists and big businesmen, it is phenomenally good. Employment, production of goods, building and selling are all on the upward swing. As far as the wise heads can predict, things will continue to improve for most American families and for the country as a whole.

But the government worries a little about inflation and where the road is leading. It is putting "slow down" controls on such financial ingredients as mortgage money, stock buying procedure and bank loans.

The business observers in government are advising people not to get too ambitious, not to assume that the speed of recent gains will go on at the same rate, not to go soaring off to a level of borrowing or speculation that might be risky if the economic weather should change.

The same advice holds for every family. It is a good time to plan ahead and hope and work toward some family dreams. But it is also a good time to save money and be sure and think long before taking any big financial plunge.

There are some people everyone knows who ought to realize that we already have plenty of hot air this time of the year. We don't need anyone trying hard to produce more.

JOB FOR THE STATES

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States finds that "states and local communities can better provide for their school needs than the federal government can."

The reason for that is that the Federal government has a back-breaking debt and is running in the red, while most of the states are well in the black. As of a comparatively recent date, the 48 states had $15,250,000,000 in cash and security holdings against less than $8,000,000,000 of outstanding debt.

It's high time that federal hand-outs to the states for schools or any other purpose were reduced—not increased. And it's beyond argument that federal fiscal problems will never be solved until there is a resurgence of the traditional American idea that local people and local government should take care of local needs.

'These Days'

THE SIGN OF THE BULL

The latest complaint to come my way is about bull-fighting. Bull itself has long been with us, particularly in the form of oratory. Apparently some promoters are planning to introduce the bull-fight into American life. About everything else has been so introduced, including the Japanese beetle, the Dutch Elm disease, hepatitis, the Communist Party, the shape of Gina Lollobrigida, pastrami and bagel and lox.

The culture of all the world flocks to us. We eat chop suey and believe that it is Chinese food and we go mad about pizza pies. We are now being subjected to a pressure to consume gin and tonic and for a while our great intellects were moved by Existentialism. We get excited when Molotov smirks, although most of our politicians have themselves photographed smiling because the photographer tells them to smile, whether it is, at the moment, necessary or not. Nehru reacts to the synthetic smile with customary neutralism; he frowns.

Dog races have not gone too well in this country for some reason; perhaps because they are not sufficiently interesting to enough people. That mechanical rabbit is a stupid thing for a dog to chase, and American dogs are not stupid. Golf comes and goes as a sport, depending upon how much extra money one has on hand. Apparently it is an attractive sport even when a President prefers to play the piano.

The prize-fights are becoming a television attraction, although they still pack some halls. The point is that the fighters are not attractive personalities. There is nobody on hand like John L. Sullivan or Jim Corbett or Gene Tunney or even Joe Louis. The present gang simply do not stir men's souls.

Will a bull do better? It is hard to say from a strictly business standpoint. The humane societies will attack bull-fighting and will undoubtedly put private eyes on the promoters to discover a scandal, such as feeding the bulls locoweed or some other concoction.

It is a little difficult for me to understand why the humane societies should care more for bulls than for humans. Why don't they get after the prize-fighters who batter each other until they become idiots, although that surely did not happen to Gene Tunney or Jack Dempsey who seem to be endowed with as much brains as most and Gene, to my certain knowledge, with more than usual. Maybe fighting did these giants some good.

The bull is an animal that produces very tough meat unless properly fed and cured. As a fighter, he makes a noise like Vishinsky and rushes about like John Foster Dulles. I am no judge of his fighting ability but it seems to me that anyone with such power ought to be able to stomp out any tiny human who stands up to him. I am told that the characters out of "Carmen" lick the bull by great skill, which is a demonstration of mind over matter. But do bull-fighters really have minds? If so, why do they not think out a better way of earning a living? Who wants to dwell among sawdust and entrails?

The promoters of bull-fighting are not, of course, sporting gentlemen who go into this thing to improve the breed of the bull. They are entrepreneurs, seeking to make a fast buck from a novelty. They will be joined by real estate men who want to build arenas and by bankers who want to finance propositions and by concessionalres who look for new markets for hot dogs.

So we shall have another pressure group, fixing local officials and underwriting election campaigns and building up local support for favored candidates who will stand by the bull as the Prohibitionists were encouraged by the soft-drink gentry. And the humane societies will set up another pressure group to fight the bull-fight people. And there will be Federal and State financiers who will see a new source of taxes and they will get legislation through taxing the bull, as they tax everything else. And then there will be a Congressional investigation to discover monopoly and corruption and Frank Costello, who probably never saw a bull, will be accused of owning the entire business under an assumed name. And Estes Kefauver will be a candidate for the Presidency.

So, let's stick to baseball.

OPENING UP HEART FOR OPERATION

During the last 10 years surgery upon the heart has been receiving great attention as more and more daring and successful operations are being performed, which would have been undreamed of just a few years ago. These operations have been performed by what is called a "blind technic" which means that the surgeon cannot see exactly what he is doing because of the flow of blood within the heart but must feel with his fingers what the defect may be and repair it as best he can. Many lives considered hopeless have been rescued in this manner.

With new methods, it is now possible to interrupt the flow of blood through the heart and thus allow the surgeon to repair certain defects which he can see. This new type of surgery has been accomplished with the use of heart-lung machines, cross circulation and hypothemia (lowering of the body temperature.) Dr. F. John Lewis, Associate Professor of Surgery at Minnesota Medical School, tells of the use of this latter method in doing heart surgery.

When the body temperature is lowered, the metabolic rate (rate at which all the body processes are working) is reduced. When the body processes are slowed down, less oxygen is required (to get oxygen the blood must travel from the heart to the lungs) and hence it is possible to shut off the flow of the blood vessels in the heart for a much longer period than it is possible at normal temperature. Thus, the inflow channels of the heart may be blocked and a dry heart field obtained long enough—up to 10 minutes—to close such defects as may exist in the heart walls carefully with stitches.

The patient is given an anesthetic of Pentothal sodium and curare. Cooling is done by wrapping the patient in refrigerating blankets made of two layers of rubberized cloth and between the layers is sewn a long rubber tube. The blankets are cooled by pumping an alcohol solution at 25 degrees Fahrenheit. Enough anesthetic is given to prevent shivering. In from one to three and one-half hours, the patient's temperature falls to 86 degrees F., from the normal of 96.6. At this point cooling is discontinued and the operation is started. The temperatures, however, continue to fall until it reaches a level of 79 to 82 degrees F. at about the time the operation is to begin.

The total period of time of interruption of the circulation has varied from three and three-quarters to seven and three-quarter minutes. During the operation the refrigerating blankets remain beneath the patient but the liquid they carry has been heated to produce a slow rising in body temperature which is accelerated, after the chest is closed, by placing the patient in a bath of hot water.

It may likely be that a future generation will consider such methods primitive but at this stage in our evolution it is a wonderful thing for the heart surgeon to be able to shut off the blood for the short period necessary to carry out heart repairs with a clear field of vision.

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — President Eisenhower believes that the prestige of the United States is at stake in the development of his atomic peace ship idea. He has given this relatively minor project a high priority on his "must list" of legislation he wants passed before Congress adjourns this year.

Congress turned down his idea in the atomic energy funds authorization legislation for the current fiscal year. But the vote in the Senate was close—42 to 41. So the President isn't taking this for a final answer.

He was hoping he would again be asked about this project at his press conference on July 6. But nobody brought it up and the President didn't volunteer a statement.

He was ready with some new arguments in support of his pet plan, however. And it can be authoritatively stated that the basis of his argument is the need to maintain American atoms-for-peace leadership.

President Eisenhower is said to feel it would be a severe loss of face to this country if another nation were the first to develop an atomic ship.

COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA has attempted to put over the idea that the United States was using its atomic energy resources for the development of bombs, atomic artillery, submarines and guided missile warheads.

A recent public opinion poll taken in western Europe revealed a belief that the Russians were doing more in developing peaceful uses of atomic energy through moving countains and rivers for nonmilitary pursuits.

This would be in spite of American promotion of the Geneva conference on peaceful uses of atomic energy and the American offer to bear half the costs of research reactor development in friendly countries.

The possibility of a friendly country developing the atomic ship first, even with American aid, is viewed in the same light as the Russians developing it first, in international rivalry. Canada, Great Britain, Belgium, France, Australia, India, East Germany and Czechoslovakia all have access to atomic ores.

THE DIFFICULTY in obtaining information on what other countries may be doing in atomic energy ship propulsion is cited as another reason for starting the American effort now.

The idea that there was any international rivalry in the atomic ship plan was not presented to the Congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Congress turned it down because it was considered impractical and uneconomic.

The President's position is that the higher initial construction costs and higher operating costs for an atomic ship should not be the determining factors. The value of the ship is said to be in its propaganda and prestige.

White House officials say the President's idea has captured popular imagination. A considerable volume of mail and phone calls has come in, supporting the project and wanting to know what could be done to push it. One correspondent sent in a small check to start a fund to build the ship.

Needless to say, these developments have not dampened the President's ardor for his pet idea. He still has hopes Congress will approve it this year.

WHILE SENATOR Clinton P. Anderson (D-New Mex.), chairman of the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy says the President's atomic peace ship idea is dead for this session of Congress there are still a couple of long chances that the idea will be revived.

Rep. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) originally an opponent of what he called the "atomic showboat," is reconsidering his position and may introduce a new proposal. His idea now is to take an existing hull and install an atomic-powered engine which could also be used as a floating power plant.

It could tour the world and generate electric current from its atomic boiler and power plant. This would demonstrate the effectiveness of the rapidly developing atomic power industry. One of the original objections to the President's proposal was that in using an existing atomic engine like the one in the Nautilus, nothing new would be learned or demonstrated.

Rep. Herbert C. Bonner (D-N. C.) chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee, has still another idea. He has introduced a new bill to build one new atom-powered ship of merchant vessel size. He has dropped an earlier idea to build two atomic ships—one small museum ship such as the President proposed, and a larger merchant vessel.

Senator Anderson now leans to the idea that eventually two ships should be built of different designs, to advance experimentation and speed up developments that would put the United States in the lead in a new race for atomic supremacy on the seas.

Woman Awarded New Court Trial

A judgment dismissing the complaint of Carolina Rossi in a negligence action against Rosario Naccarato, which was entered in favor of the defendant upon the verdict of a jury after a trial in the Supreme Court, Ulster county, Justice Harry E. Schirick presiding, was reversed on the law and facts and a new trial ordered July 7 by a unanimous decision of the Appellate Division, Third Judicial Department, because such verdict was against the weight of the evidence.

The action arose out of an automobile accident which occurred on Route 9W in Cementon, Greene county, Sept. 13, 1951 at about 9:30 p. m. At the time of the accident the plaintiff was a passenger in an automobile owned by herself but being driven by Rosario Naccarato. As they were proceeding southerly on Route 9W in Cementon they approached a point where the road makes a very sharp turn to the east or to the driver's left. When the automobile reached the curve on the highway it failed to negotiate the turn and went off the highway and on to an embankment on the right hand side of the curve.

AS A RESULT of this accident Mrs. Rossi sustained many injuries, including bruises and cuts about the face and hands and a fracture of both bones of the left forearm.

At the trial the plaintiff testified in her own behalf and said that the car was going too fast and went up the bank on the sharp curve. The court in its decision held: "Speed on a sharp turn with a resulting accident when a vehicle fails to get around the turn is, on its face, sufficient evidence of negligence."

The defendant failed to put in any proof and rested on the plaintiff's case. As to this the court said: "Defendant gave no explanation whatever of the accident. While, as a matter of law, he is not required to make any explanation and is entitled to rest on plaintiff's case still the showing of negligence on the record is clear enough that in the absence of any explanation by the driver who was in full personal control of the operation of the vehicle, we regard the verdict as against the weight of evidence."

Carolina Rossi, the successful appellant, was represented by the firm of Saccoman and DiDonna. Her appeal was argued by Joseph D. Saccoman. Rosario Naccarato was represented by the firm of Cashin and Ewig, with Arthur Ewig arguing the appeal in his behalf.

Pressure Is Seen In Ford Pay Plan

Detroit, July 16 (AP)—A Ford Motor Co. official hints that fear that Chrysler would grant CIO United Auto Workers a full guaranteed annual wage prompted Ford to agree to a modified layoff plan.

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president in charge of industrial relations, said Ford eliminated the "dangerous principles of the UAW's guaranteed annual wage," by agreeing to a watered-down version.

He said in a booklet outlining the plan negotiated by the company with the UAW June 7 that Ford experts felt "inadequacies" in present state unemployment compensation systems could build up pressure for some sort of supplementation.

And he added Ford felt this pressure could force a "breakthrough" in the auto industry.

New Paltz, July 15—"One of the most important things for older persons to remember is to keep up an interest in young people," Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told members of the Retired Teachers Workshop and visitors at the State University Teachers College, New Paltz, Wednesday.

"The idea that I am getting old hasn't bothered me," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "because I've lived so much more with young people." She further explained that it should be a challenge to older people to make themselves the kind of persons that young people want to be with.

Mrs. Roosevelt advised the retired teachers that they must learn when the point comes to stop certain things. "Make yourself slow down," she emphasized. She said she works harder today than when she was younger, and she doesn't need as much food or sleep.

Farm Bureau Sets Membership Goal

New York Farm Bureau has established a state-wide membership goal for 1956 of 30,000 members by action of its board of directors, according to Don J. Wickham of Hector, president.

Wickham reports that the board of directors has recommended to the newly formed independent county Farm Bureaus throughout the state that they establish county membership goals in tune with the statewide goal.

According to the State Farm Bureau president, Farm Bureau and Extension Service will be completely independent of each other beginning Jan. 1. Farm Bureau will be completely farmer-owned, farmer-controlled and farmer-financed with uniform state-wide dues of $20 per member. When Farm Bureau has served as a sponsoring organization for Extension Service, which is a publicly supported educational service, it has had to avoid taking positions on controversial matters, especially those matters in which government is involved.

Boy Scout News

BOTH RURAL DENS of Cub Pack 9, sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, are doing their bit to acquaint the people of their communities with Scouting activities during the present Rip Van Winkle Council finance campaign.

Den 4, which comprises the newest Cubs in the pack, has a window display in the St. Remy post office. Scouts Richard Alexander, Raymond Krom, Robert Marlowe, William Reynolds, Paul Richers, Bruce Smalling, and Kenneth White, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Krom, den mother and den dad, have centered their display around the Cubbing themes for the past three months: Forestry, Circus, and Wheels and Wings.

At the post office in Ulster Park, a Cub Scout cut-out invites neighbors over to the S. T. Van Aken grocery store where Den 1, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. William Daum, den mother and den dad, has its display. Scouts Michael Boomhower, William Daum, Robert Elliott, Donald Lane, Dennis Markle, Karl Tienken and Robert Villielm have written stories of their Cub activities from January through July. On view also are models of trains, cars, whittled figures, log cabins, scrapbooks, "knights of yore," circus mobiles and woodwork.

Both dens, led by Den Chief John Guido of Troop 9, meet regularly during the summer months with various mothers in the two communities assisting. For the present theme, "Discovering America," the boys are concentrating on the history of New York state. Other activities include den swims, games and races planned by the Cubs, and work on Den 4's "shack."

Another father-son outing for the entire pack will be held Sunday, July 17, Cubmaster Bob Elliott has announced. The group will leave from Redeemer Church at Wurts and Rogers streets at 11:30 a. m. to visit the New York State Museum at Albany. The Cubs and their dads are reminded to take along a picnic lunch.

Eisenhower . . .

which has poisoned relations between countries can be dispelled at his meeting with the Russian, British and French leaders starting Monday, then:

"We will have taken the greatest step toward peace, toward future prosperity and tranquillity that has ever been taken in all the history of mankind."

He spoke of the conference attempting "to prevent war . . . to keep from us this terrible scourge that afflicts mankind."

IT IS CLEAR, he said, that in the short time of the conference "we cannot settle the details of the many problems that afflict the world," but he added later:

"We want peace. We cannot look at this whole situation without realizing first that pessimism never won any battle, whether it was in peace or whether it was in war."

A keyed-up crowd of more than 200 saw the President off at the airport. Vice President and Mrs. Nixon were there. So was Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. So were a number of foreign diplomats — including, possibly as a good omen, the acting head of the Soviet embassy, Sergei R. Striganov.

EISENHOWER was joviality itself at the departure, in contrast to the gravity of his broadcast manner. Before the broadcast, he'd voiced some concern about the heat in the room and about a chance that he might run a little over the scheduled 15 minutes. He made it plain he meant every word of that address and wanted all of it to reach the nation. It did, within the scheduled time.

Perhaps the greatest tribute to the high purpose of his overseas mission came, unwittingly, from scores of motorists who leaned from their cars and waved as the President's long black car whizzed from the White House to the airport.

PEOPLE HEREABOUTS take the President's usual comings and goings pretty much for granted. They knew there was something special about this trip and they let him know it. A knot of bystanders gathered at the White House gate. Eisenhower flicked on the car's ceiling light and flashed his grin at them.

He had a suggestion for well-wishers: go to church and pray for success of the Big Four Conference. If all Americans did that, he said, it would "demonstrate to all the world the sincerity and depth of our aspirations for peace.

"This would be a mighty force. None could then say that we must preserve araments because we want to. We preserve them because we must."

DISARMAMENT, of course, is a prime topic of the Geneva talks, along with such matters as unification of Germany.

But the President made it clear there are other problems to be settled and he referred to some the Russians don't want to talk about—Communist subversion and interference with non Communist governments, and "the problem of the captive states," the Soviet satellites.

Still, his general tone was conciliatory.

Past conferences, he said, have foundered because too much was attempted, too many details swamped them, they were used as propaganda sounding boards.

THIS TIME, he said, he hopes for "an honest effort to conciliate, to see the other fellow's viewpoint," a recognition that all peopies—the Russians included—want to bring up their children "in a world of which they will be proud."

"My friends," said the President, "Secretary (of state) Dulles and I . . . shall be conciliatory because our country seeks no conquest, no property of others. We shall be tolerant, because this nation does not seek to impose our way of life upon others."

Mobs took over the European quarter of the city for 12 hours yesterday before order was restored.

European residents prepared today to bury the victims of a Nationalist terrorist bombing which touched off the outbreaks Thursday. Six persons were killed when the bomb exploded in a crowded cafe section where Frenchmen were celebrating Bastille Day.

SOME EUROPEANS passed out handbills today announcing the public funeral services and saying: "We ask that public authorities should not send anyone to represent them."

Sentiment in the European quarter has been running high against Gilbert Grandval, the new French resident general in Morocco, who arrived from Paris eight days ago with French cabinet orders to ease the tight French administration of the Morocco protectorate.

Morocco's ardent Nationalists have long been carrying out a terrorist campaign on bombings and slayings in their drive for self-government.

Friction has increased recently as European residents lashed back at officials and other Frenchmen who have urged moderation and sympathy toward Nationalist aims.

Some 250,000 Europeans, most of them French, live in this modern city of 650,000.

Reserves Prefer Air Force, Navy To Army, Marines

Washington, July 16 (AP)—A Senate transcript offered conflicting opinions today about why more young men are more willing to serve in the air force and navy than the army and marines.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joints Chiefs of Staff, said the "young men have it figured out that combat duty in the army and marines is more dangerous."

Sen. Russell (D.-Ga.) disagreed, saying that young men are not afraid to risk combat duty but prefer to be comfortable while doing it. Radford agreed that also is a factor.

THE DISCUSSION developed during testimony on the controversial National Reserves Plan. As since approved by the Senate, the legislation would offer a bonus to any service veteran who joins a combat reserve unit of the Army and Marine Corps. Russell said the air force and navy believe they can get enough volunteers without the special payments.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R.-Maine) asked Radford why boys are "attracted to the air force and the navy?"

Radford said the youths believed it is more dangerous in the ground force combat units.

Pressed for other reasons, Radford said danger probably "is the compelling one" but they also feel the "service conditions under which they serve are probably more attractive, as well."

RUSSELL HAD a different idea.

"Our standard of living has been built so high that our young men would rather take a much greater chance of being killed and sleep in a warm bed at night and get three good meals a day...," he said.

"The thing that makes your ground troop service unattractive is that they are going to have to get out there in the mud and dirt and grime and the rats and cold food, and sometime no food at all, in addition to the danger, and that has as much to do with it as the question of danger."

Other senators did not enter the controversy.

John Marshall, Stephen Field and John Harlan, each served as justices of the United States Supreme Court for 34 years.

Woman Awarded New Court Trial

A judgment dismissing the complaint of Carolina Rossi in a negligence action against Rosario Naccarato, which was entered in favor of the defendant upon the verdict of a jury after a trial in the Supreme Court, Ulster county, Justice Harry E. Schirick presiding, was reversed on the law and facts and a new trial ordered July 7 by a unanimous decision of the Appellate Division, Third Judicial Department, because such verdict was against the weight of the evidence.

The action arose out of an automobile accident which occurred on Route 9W in Cementon, Greene county, Sept. 13, 1951 at about 9:30 p. m. At the time of the accident the plaintiff was a passenger in an automobile owned by herself but being driven by Rosario Naccarato. As they were proceeding southerly on Route 9W in Cementon they approached a point where the road makes a very sharp turn to the east or to the driver's left. When the automobile reached the curve on the highway it failed to negotiate the turn and went off the highway and on to an embankment on the right hand side of the curve.

AS A RESULT of this accident Mrs. Rossi sustained many injuries, including bruises and cuts about the face and hands and a fracture of both bones of the left forearm.

At the trial the plaintiff testified in her own behalf and said that the car was going too fast and went up the bank on the sharp curve. The court in its decision held: "Speed on a sharp turn with a resulting accident when a vehicle fails to get around the turn is, on its face, sufficient evidence of negligence."

The defendant failed to put in any proof and rested on the plaintiff's case. As to this the court said: "Defendant gave no explanation whatever of the accident. While, as a matter of law, he is not required to make any explanation and is entitled to rest on plaintiff's case still the showing of negligence on the record is clear enough that in the absence of any explanation by the driver who was in full personal control of the operation of the vehicle, we regard the verdict as against the weight of evidence."

Carolina Rossi, the successful appellant, was represented by the firm of Saccoman and DiDonna. Her appeal was argued by Joseph D. Saccoman. Rosario Naccarato was represented by the firm of Cashin and Ewig, with Arthur Ewig arguing the appeal in his behalf.

Pressure Is Seen In Ford Pay Plan

Detroit, July 16 (AP)—A Ford Motor Co. official hints that fear that Chrysler would grant CIO United Auto Workers a full guaranteed annual wage prompted Ford to agree to a modified layoff plan.

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president in charge of industrial relations, said Ford eliminated the "dangerous principles of the UAW's guaranteed annual wage," by agreeing to a watered-down version.

He said in a booklet outlining the plan negotiated by the company with the UAW June 7 that Ford experts felt "inadequacies" in present state unemployment compensation systems could build up pressure for some sort of supplementation.

And he added Ford felt this pressure could force a "breakthrough" in the auto industry.

Farm Bureau Sets Membership Goal

New York Farm Bureau has established a state-wide membership goal for 1956 of 30,000 members by action of its board of directors, according to Don J. Wickham of Hector, president.

Wickham reports that the board of directors has recommended to the newly formed independent county Farm Bureaus throughout the state that they establish county membership goals in tune with the statewide goal.

According to the State Farm Bureau president, Farm Bureau and Extension Service will be completely independent of each other beginning Jan. 1. Farm Bureau will be completely farmer-owned, farmer-controlled and farmer-financed with uniform state-wide dues of $20 per member. When Farm Bureau has served as a sponsoring organization for Extension Service, which is a publicly supported educational service, it has had to avoid taking positions on controversial matters, especially those matters in which government is involved.

Boy Scout News

BOTH RURAL DENS of Cub Pack 9, sponsored by the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, are doing their bit to acquaint the people of their communities with Scouting activities during the present Rip Van Winkle Council finance campaign.

Den 4, which comprises the newest Cubs in the pack, has a window display in the St. Remy post office. Scouts Richard Alexander, Raymond Krom, Robert Marlowe, William Reynolds, Paul Richers, Bruce Smalling, and Kenneth White, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Krom, den mother and den dad, have centered their display around the Cubbing themes for the past three months: Forestry, Circus, and Wheels and Wings.

At the post office in Ulster Park, a Cub Scout cut-out invites neighbors over to the S. T. Van Aken grocery store where Den 1, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. William Daum, den mother and den dad, has its display. Scouts Michael Boomhower, William Daum, Robert Elliott, Donald Lane, Dennis Markle, Karl Tienken and Robert Villielm have written stories of their Cub activities from January through July. On view also are models of trains, cars, whittled figures, log cabins, scrapbooks, "knights of yore," circus mobiles and woodwork.

Both dens, led by Den Chief John Guido of Troop 9, meet regularly during the summer months with various mothers in the two communities assisting. For the present theme, "Discovering America," the boys are concentrating on the history of New York state. Other activities include den swims, games and races planned by the Cubs, and work on Den 4's "shack."

Another father-son outing for the entire pack will be held Sunday, July 17. Cubmaster Bob Elliott has announced. The group will leave from Redeemer Church at Wurts and Rogers streets at 11:30 a. m. to visit the New York State Museum at Albany. The Cubs and their dads are reminded to take along a picnic lunch.

Eisenhower . . .

which has poisoned relations between countries can be dispelled at his meeting with the Russian, British and French leaders starting Monday, then:

"We will have taken the greatest step toward peace, toward future prosperity and tranquility that has ever been taken in all the history of mankind."

He spoke of the conference attempting "to prevent war . . . to keep from us this terrible scourge that afflicts mankind."

IT IS CLEAR, he said, that in the short time of the conference "we cannot settle the details of the many problems that afflict the world," but he added later:

"We want peace. We cannot look at this whole situation without realizing first that pessimism never won any battle, whether it was in peace or whether it was in war."

A keyed-up crowd of more than 200 saw the President off at the airport. Vice President and Mrs. Nixon were there. So was Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. So were a number of foreign diplomats — including, possibly as a good omen, the acting head of the Soviet embassy, Sergei R. Striganov.

EISENHOWER was joviality itself at the departure, in contrast to the gravity of his broadcast manner. Before the broadcast, he'd voiced some concern about the heat in the room and about a chance that he might run a little over the scheduled 15 minutes. He made it plain he meant every word of that address and wanted all of it to reach the nation. It did, within the scheduled time.

Perhaps the greatest tribute to the high purpose of his overseas mission came, unwittingly, from scores of motorists who leaned from their cars and waved as the President's long black car whizzed from the White House to the airport.

PEOPLE HEREABOUTS take the President's usual comings and goings pretty much for granted. They knew there was something special about this trip and they let him know it. A knot of bystanders gathered at the White House gate. Eisenhower flicked on the car's ceiling light and flashed his grin at them.

He had a suggestion for well-wishers: go to church and pray for success of the Big Four Conference. If all Americans did that, he said, it would "demonstrate to all the world the sincerity and depth of our aspirations for peace.

"This would be a mighty force. None could then say that we must preserve araments because we want to. We preserve them because we must."

DISARMAMENT, of course, is a prime topic of the Geneva talks, along with such matters as unification of Germany.

But the President made it clear there are other problems to be settled and he referred to some the Russians don't want to talk about—Communist subversion and interference with non Communist governments, and "the problem of the captive states," the Soviet satellites.

Still, his general tone was conciliatory.

Past conferences, he said, have foundered because too mucn was attempted, too many details swamped them, they were used as propaganda sounding boards.

THIS TIME, he said, he hopes for "an honest effort to conciliate, to see the other fellow's viewpoint," a recognition that all peopies—the Russians included—want to bring up their children "in a world of which they will be proud."

"My friends," said the President, "Secretary (of state) Dulles and I . . . shall be conciliatory because our country seeks no conquest, no property of others. We shall be tolerant, because this nation does not seek to impose our way of life upon others."

Held in County Jail

Richard Macomber, 24, of 39 Taylor street, was arrested at 1:06 a. m., today by Officers William Slover and Joseph Keller on charges of driving without a license and improper use of license plates. In City Court today he was fined $25 or five days on the license charge, and received a fine of $10 or two days on the license plate charge. He was held at the Ulster County Jail.

Mobs took over the European quarter of the city for 12 hours yesterday before order was restored.

European residents prepared today to bury the victims of a Nationalist terrorist bombing which touched off the outbreaks Thursday. Six persons were killed when the bomb exploded in a crowded cafe section where Frenchmen were celebrating Bastille Day.

SOME EUROPEANS passed out handbills today announcing the public funeral services and saying: "We ask that public authorities should not send anyone to represent them."

Sentiment in the European quarter has been running high against Gilbert Grandval, the new French resident general in Morocco, who arrived from Paris eight days ago with French cabinet orders to ease the tight French administration of the Morocco protectorate.

Morocco's ardent Nationalists have long been carrying out a terrorist campaign on bombings and slayings in their drive for self-government.

Friction has increased recently as European residents lashed back at officials and other Frenchmen who have urged moderation and sympathy toward Nationalist aims.

Some 250,000 Europeans, most of them French, live in this modern city of 650,000.

Reserves Prefer Air Force, Navy To Army, Marines

Washington, July 16 (AP)—A Senate transcript offered conflicting opinions today about why more young men are more willing to serve in the air force and navy than the army and marines.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joints Chiefs of Staff, said the "young men have it figured out that combat duty in the army and marines is more dangerous."

Sen. Russell (D.-Ga.) disagreed, saying that young men are not afraid to risk combat duty but prefer to be comfortable while doing it. Radford agreed that also is a factor.

THE DISCUSSION developed during testimony on the controversial National Reserves Plan. As since approved by the Senate, the legislation would offer a bonus to any service veteran who joins a combat reserve unit of the Army and Marine Corps. Russell said the air force and navy believe they can get enough volunteers without the special payments.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R.-Maine) asked Radford why boys are "attracted to the air force and the navy?"

Radford said the youths believed it is more dangerous in the ground force combat units.

Pressed for other reasons, Radford said danger probably "is the compelling one" but they also feel the "service conditions under which they serve are probably more attractive, as well."

RUSSELL HAD a different idea.

"Our standard of living has been built so high that our young men would rather take a much greater chance of being killed and sleep in a warm bed at night and get three good meals a day...," he said.

"The thing that makes your ground troop service unattractive is that they are going to have to get out there in the mud and dirt and grime and the rats and cold food, and sometime no food at all, in addition to the danger, and that has as much to do with it as the question of danger."

Other senators did not enter the controversy.

Painting Over Varnish

Before painting over varnished or enameled surfaces, you can apply an undercoater which combines with the varnish and forms a better base for subsequent coats of paint or enamel. If the woodwork is stained but not varnished—or if the varnish has been removed, exposing the stain—apply a coat of prepared stain sealer.

Keeps Dampness Out

Painting a brick house that is damp will aid greatly in keeping out moisture. Sometimes it results in a substantial saving in fuel bills, as well.

More Room Than Seems In 'Woodlake'

Rooms	Eight
Bedrooms	Three
Closets	Eight
Cubage	33,200 ft.
Dimensions	52' x 32 ft.

A low, overhanging roof adds to the neat, cozy appearance of "The Woodlake," today's presentation from the Home of the Week Plan Service. The wide, outside chimney and the large window areas are two more distinguishing architectural features of this modern one-story home.

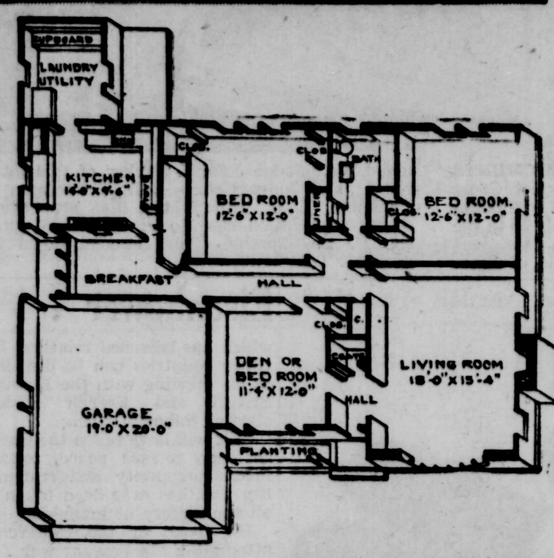
Shingles or clapboards, with perhaps a touch of stone facing under the living room bay — as used in the above illustration—will add to the appeal of the house exterior. Measurements are 52 by 32 feet; cubage is 33,200 feet. You'll need only a 75-foot lot on which to build this house.

Central Hallway

Inside, the house is also modern and well planned — it contains more room than you might think from a casual look at the outside. The entry hall opens on the living room and also on the den or bedroom. In their turn, both these rooms open on the central hallway connecting with all the rooms in the house. Thus it's easy to go from one part of this house to another without walking through several rooms.

There's ample sleeping area inside the house, too, in addition to the two regular bedrooms — placed in the rear and quieter part of the house — there is a room designed for use as a den, bedroom or guest room.

No formal dining room is provided in this plan, but the good-sized breakfast room can serve as the site for most family meals. And, of course, the living room is more than large enough to do double duty.



Kitchen Area

The kitchen proper is definitely a work area. All your appliances and your kitchen equipment are close at hand. Just in back of the kitchen is the laundry-utility room. Direct access is provided to the yard from this room.

The first floor location of the laundry equipment will meet with the approval of the ever-increasing number of homemakers who find it more convenient to have their laundry equipment on the ground floor.

Only the heating plant needs to be installed in the basement. It should be placed under the living room.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Paperwhite Narcissus

Gardeners must realize that paper white narcissus have a relatively short blooming season. Under average conditions each crop of flowers lasts barely a week, but considering the low cost of the bulbs that will be a week of special joy. For a nearly continuous display a new set of bulbs should be started about every 10 to 14 days.

Avoid the Unusual

In buying plumbing fixtures, it is wise to choose colors and sizes which have the greatest utility, FHA officials advise. Fixtures of unusual shapes should be avoided unless there is a specific need for them.

Corn is maturing in at least one of the countries of the world every month of the year.

Tune Up Radiators To Save Fuel Cost

If you want to heat your home efficiently this winter, give your radiators a quick fall tune-up before cold weather comes.

A poor radiator or one not properly maintained can be a heat bottleneck that will run up your fuel bills and still not keep a room at comfortable temperatures, heating men agree. Be sure that radiators are clean, especialy in hard-to-reach areas. Dust on a radiator acts as insulation and gives off vapors when the heating plant is started. If radiators need refinishing use an oil rather than a metallic paint. Metallic paints cut heating efficiency about 15 per cent, experiments show.

Low-Cost Glamour

Candles are a good yet inexpensive adjunct to home decoration. They help to achieve glamour at low cost. When setting a dining table, be sure to use enough candles to give sufficient light and be sure they are high enough so that flames are not on a level with diner's eyes. Unburned candles look "stagey." Be sure wicks have been lighted when using candles for decoration.

Window Looks Larger

To gain more light from a small window and to step up its importance, or to make a narrow window appear much wider, use swinging side-arm brackets, which hold the curtains well to the side of the window frame, allowing as much of the glass to show as you like. Use removable curtain hooks to hang your draperies on the rods.

Space for Mixer

If you are thinking of acquiring an electric mixer, be sure to plan a permanent place for it in your kitchen. You'll need at least a square foot of space for a mixer on a kitchen counter.

Concrete Stains Source of Worry

One of the things that worries people who own nice gleaming white concrete drives is what they will do when a departing car leaves a nice big oil or grease stain.

Well, there are a good many things to do but you should do them just as soon as you can for the longer oil or grease stands on the concrete the deeper it will penetrate. If you catch the stain you may be able to get it out by scrubbing it with a stiff fiber brush and a solvent such as gasoline or carbon tetrachloride. Needless to say, these should only be used on outside work where there won't be any danger from fire or fumes. Another trick is to absorb the stain out of the concrete with dry Portland cement or cement dampened with a solvent.

If you are constantly bothered by stains on the driveway you might be wise in getting one of the many preparations made for removing grease and oil from concrete. These are designed primarily for industrial work but the chances are that your local garage will have some on hand or will be able to give the name of a local dealer. These compounds are not difficult to use or expensive to buy and they'll be a lot of help.

Of course, what you can always do is to buy a sheet of metal and place this in the drive where you usually park your car. If the sheet is large enough—say 3 feet by 3 feet—it will act as a drip pan and prevent the oil and grease from around the engine getting on the absorbent concrete.

'Pumpkin Pine' Finish

Chimney Height

For proper draft, the top of a chimney should extend at least two feet higher than the highest ridge of the roof.

Busy Teacher

Decatur, Mich. (AP)—The Rev. Henry Houseman is supply minister of the Methodist Harmony Chapel, but that isn't all. Farmer Houseman raises muck crops as a part-time occupation on his small farm. Teacher Houseman goes over readin', writin', and 'rithmetic as principal of Decatur High School—a post he's held for 28 years. Meanwhile, in his spare time, 58-year-old Houseman continues his studies as a candidate for full ordination as a Methodist minister.

Different Paints Require Varied Brushing Styles

The best way to apply paint depends on the paint.

The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association recommends that flat paint be brushed in a semi-circular stroke, allowing the brush to leave the surface on the completed portion of the work.

Varnishes and enamels are flowed on with plenty of material carried on the brush in even strokes to maintain a uniform thickness.

Old Ivory Finish

Serve Dual Purpose

Bookshelves built in an entrance hall serve a dual purpose. They offer storage space for books and at the same time create an inviting appearance.

Use Convector Heating Units

When wall space is limited or a certain room treatment is desired, it is customary for architects and builders to have cinvectors built in, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports.

When convectors are built into furniture, it is essential that the built-in enclosure be fitted snugly around the heating unit to assure full heating capacity by preventing air from by-passing the heating unit. The enclosure must be so designed that the movement of air is directed through the heating unit for discharge into the room.

In building convectors into furniture, many types of materials can be used including masonite, sheet metal, plywood or insulation board.

Needless to say, these should only be used on outside work where there won't be any danger from fire or fumes. Another trick is to absorb the stain out of the concrete with dry Portland cement or cement dampened with a solvent.

If you are constantly bothered by stains on the driveway you might be wise in getting one of the many preparations made for removing grease and oil from concrete. These are designed primarily for industrial work but the chances are that your local garage will have some on hand or will be able to give the name of a local dealer. These compounds are not difficult to use or expensive to buy and they'll be a lot of help.

Of course, what you can always do is to buy a sheet of metal and place this in the drive where you usually park your car. If the sheet is large enough—say 3 feet by 3 feet—it will act as a drip pan and prevent the oil and grease from around the engine getting on the absorbent concrete.

'Pumpkin Pine' Finish

Chimney Height

For proper draft, the top of a chimney should extend at least two feet higher than the highest ridge of the roof.

Busy Teacher

Decatur, Mich. (AP)—The Rev. Henry Houseman is supply minister of the Methodist Harmony Chapel, but that isn't all. Farmer Houseman raises muck crops as a part-time occupation on his small farm. Teacher Houseman goes over readin', writin', and 'rithmetic as principal of Decatur High School—a post he's held for 28 years. Meanwhile, in his spare time, 58-year-old Houseman continues his studies as a candidate for full ordination as a Methodist minister.

Different Paints Require Varied Brushing Styles

The best way to apply paint depends on the paint.

The National Paint, Varnish and Lacquer Association recommends that flat paint be brushed in a semi-circular stroke, allowing the brush to leave the surface on the completed portion of the work.

Varnishes and enamels are flowed on with plenty of material carried on the brush in even strokes to maintain a uniform thickness.

Old Ivory Finish

Serve Dual Purpose

Bookshelves built in an entrance hall serve a dual purpose. They offer storage space for books and at the same time create an inviting appearance.

Use Convector Heating Units

Convector heating units lend themselves ideally to use in built-in benches, lounges, window seats, bookcases, tables and kitchen base cabinets.

When wall space is limited or a certain room treatment is desired, it is customary for architects and builders to have cinvectors built in, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau reports.

When convectors are built into furniture, it is essential that the built-in enclosure be fitted snugly around the heating unit to assure full heating capacity by preventing air from by-passing the heating unit. The enclosure must be so designed that the movement of air is directed through the heating unit for discharge into the room.

In building convectors into furniture, many types of materials can be used including masonite, sheet metal, plywood or insulation board.

Condition of Actress Slightly Improved

Hollywood, July 16 (AP)—Suzan Ball's husband, actor Richard Long, says that her condition is "serious," but "not without the ever-present element of hope."

He said that the 21-year-old actress was resting comfortably yesterday at the City of Hope Medical Center in nearby Duarte, undergoing a diagnosis for a recurrence of cancer. Her right leg was amputated because of the disease 18 months ago.

Doctors expect to complete their diagnostic studies by early next week. No sudden change in her condition is expected. She is receiving oxygen occasionally, and her condition was termed slightly improved yesterday.

Dog Is Missing

Stanley J. Matthews of Hurley reported to police at 4:45 p. m., Friday that a miniature Pinscher dog was missing from the Matthews car parked in front of the office of Dr. John B. Upon returning to the car, she discovered the dog missing. The dog answers to the name of "Zipper" and is brown in color. The police report said the owner believed some one had taken the dog from the car or left the door open so that the dog could get out.

440,000 Polio Shots Released

Washington, July 16 (AP)—The Public Health Service released 440,000 more shots of Salk polio vaccine yesterday.

The latest batch is from the Pitman-Moore Co. Laboratories of Zionsville, Ind. Public Health Service spokesmen said it all would go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for its free-two-shot program of vaccinating first and second graders.

THE HEALTH Service has released 2,998,000 shots since revised testing and production standards were adopted May 26. Prior to that, approximately nine milion shots had been made available.

As fresh supplies of the vaccine gave new impetus to the inoculation program in this country, Great Britain announced abandonment of plans for an extensive trial of the Salk formula there.

Britain announced yesterday it had decided instead to launch a research project of its own in an attempt to make a vaccine with less virulent strains of the polio virus than those used in the Salk method.

Murrow, Others Safe As Plane Hits Pole

Yakima, Wash., July 16 (AP)—Fifteen persons including newscaster Edward R. Murrow and family walked away unharmed yesterday when an airliner crashed into a pole and lost six feet of wing tip after a landing.

The big plane sailed right along for several hundred yards after the runway terminated, scraping across a fence post and finally striking the utility pole.

Legion Juniors to Play Second Game With Saugerties Sunday

Game Slated At Dietz Stadium

American Legion Juniors will seek to clinch Ulster county honors Sunday night at Dietz Stadium when they meet the Saugerties team in the second of a best-of-three series. Game time is 8:15 o'clock.

The locals pounded their opponents by an 11-3 score in the opener last Monday.

Giannuzzi didn't pitch in the opener. Bob Maines, another lefty, did the hurling and stopped Saugerties with a classy three-hitter.

Maines will perform in right field tomorrow night, but he may be used if Giannuzzi requires relief help.

RONNIE ASHDOWN will be the catcher. The infield will be Joe Hoffman at first, John Culjak at second, Skip Brodhead at short and Eric Blackwell at third.

Bill Cragin, Ronnie Ferraro and Maines are the starting outfielders.

The Saugerties hurler will be either Dick Winnie or Jim Farrell, the high school ace. Both are righthanders.

Winnie started last Monday and did a good job until his defense let him down in the fifth inning.

Turnesa in Lead At Halfway Mark Of Open Tourney

Milwaukee, July 16 (AP) — Little Jim Turnesa, one of seven golfing brothers, fired a record 7 under par 63 yesterday that carried him into first place at the halfway point of the $35,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

A 36 hole total of 130 moved the 1952 PGA titlist past the first day's leader, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. Turnesa, of Briarcliff, N. Y., was out in 31 and back in 32 over the par 70 Blue Mound Country Club. He claimed a 67 in the first round Thursday.

MIDDLECOFF, who matched the course record with a 64 Thursday, added a 67 yesterday and was one stroke off the pace at 131.

Par was beaten 44 times yesterday and the surge of great games left one prominent victim. Jack Fleck, Davenport, Iowa, the 1955 U. S. Open champion, added a 73 to his opening 72 for a 145 and failed to qualify for the final 36 holes. It took a 142 only two strokes over regulation for 36, to get into the final rounds.

The tremendous shooting provided another record yesterday when Walker Inman Jr., Augusta, Ga., raced through the back nine in 28 shots, seven under par. Middlecoff set the old record Thursday at 29.

INMAN WAS 37 on the first nine and 71-65—136 for the first two days. Among the others at 136 was Sam Snead, pretourney favorite from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on rounds of 69-67, and Don Cherry, the meet's low amateur. Cherry, Wichita Falls, Tex., had 18's of 68-68.

The 43-year old Turnesa approached the pins with dazzling shots and downed his putts with ease from all over the greens. His sizzling putter carried him to five birdies on the out nine. He dropped in a 15 footer on the 15th for another birdie and added two more on short putts on the 14th and 18th holes.

Favorites in Action

Atlanta, July 16 (AP)—Favorites only — just the way they were seeded—played in the National clay courts tennis tournament mens' and women's semi-finals today. Big Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Wimbledon champion and seeded No. 1 here, faced third-seeded Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J.; and Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., seeded after Trabert, took on Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., the defending champion and seeded fourth. In the women's bracket favorite Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif., faced third-seeded Jean Clarke of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Almeda, Calif., seeded second, met top-seeded foreign star, Yola Ramirez from Mexico City.

Navy, Artillery, Jets, Marines

Imagine What VFW Will Do to Cops July 27!

After learning that the Kingston Patrolmen's Association considers them to be "easy competition," the Veterans of Foreign Wars are up in arms.

"If the Axis forces couldn't beat us VFW boys in the Second World War," growled Jake Senor, manager of the Vets, "how's a bunch of cops going to do it?"

"Lemme tell you, we've got a Navy battery, an artillery infield, a jet-propelled outfield and a bunch of Marines as shock troops ready for those cops," continued Jake.

WHAT'S THIS all about? It's the VFW-KPA baseball game at Dietz Stadium on Wednesday night, July 27.

The VFW manager reported that interest in the game has reached a fever pitch already. "My boys are champing at the bit," Jake declared. "We consider the cops our meat."

The Scoreboard

By ED WILKS
(The Associated Press)

A year ago, Don Newcombe's failure was one of the reasons Brooklyn lost the pennant. Now, he may well be the most valuable figure in what looks like a Dodger runaway in the National League.

Newk was 20-9 in 1951 before leaving for the army, and the big righthander's return last season was to have clinched a third straight flag for the Brooks. But on top of Roy Campanella's injuries, Newcombe was only a 9-8 pitcher and Brooklyn was only a runnerup.

NEWCOMBE'S MAKING up for all that this season. A Colonia, N. J., resident, he was one of the big guys in Brooklyn's fast get away, and now that injuries have slowed the Dodgers a bit, Newcombe's become the stopper.

He halted a three-game Brooklyn slump yesterday, both on the mound and at the bat. Newcombe scattered eight St. Louis hits, and when the Cards got close, touched off a six-run rally with his sixth homer to win 12-3. Coupled with Milwaukee's 1-0 defeat at Philadelphia last night, that put Brooklyn 11½ games out front again.

Newk really had himself a day. It was his 15th victory, against one defeat, and he had two singles and a double in addition to the home run that tied a National League record for pitchers. He drove in three runs in the Dodgers' 16-hit attack on five St. Louis hurlers. Two of the RBIs came in the eighth-inning outburst when he chipped in his homer and a single.

HAL SCHUMACHER of the New York Giants set the NL homer mark for pitchers in 1934 and Boston's Jim Tobin tied it with six in 1942. Cleveland's Wes Farrell set the Major League mark, within Newk's range, with nine in 1931.

With their lead back in shape, Brooklyn's main worry now may be the New York Giants, who continued their revival by grabbing third place from Chicago with a 5-3 victory over the Cubs. Cincinnati whipped Pittsburgh 9-1, in the other NL game, tying St. Louis for fifth place.

In the American, New York dumped Cleveland to third with a 4-3 decision in 10 innings. Chicago took over second, 4½ games behind the Yanks, by edging Washington 5-4. Baltimore whipped Kansas City 8-5. Rain postponed Boston at Detroit.

THE GIANTS moved up 14½ games behind Brooklyn by winning their eighth in the last nine. Jim Hearn took his ninth triumph after New York scored four runs in the first inning. Willie Mays, 'til now a humpty-dumpty for Cub hurlers, got 3-for-3. Jim King homered for the Cubs, who had Randy Jackson, Dee Fondy and Hank Sauer on the bench in a lineup switch that didn't keep Chicago from losing its eighth in 11 games.

Murry Dickson cooled off the Braves, who had won 19 of 26, giving just three hits. A walk and Marv Blaylock's triple produced the run in the eighth as Lew Burdette lost a six-hitter.

The Yanks caught up with Cleveland's 3-0 lead in the ninth on Eddie Robinson's three-run homer off Early Wynn. Then Erv Noren smacked Mike Garcia for the home run that won in the 10th. Two unearned runs in the first and Al Rosen's homer fell short for the Tribe, with Tom Morgan the winner in relief.

BOB KENNEDY'S two-run triple in the ninth won for the White Sox, who trimmed the Senators for the 11th straight time and knocked the Nats into a virtual tie with Baltimore for seventh place. Dixie Howell won in relief after Chuck Stobbs and loser Johnny Schmitz held the Sox hitless for six frames until Kennedy connected.

The Redlegs ran up a 28-run total against the Bucs in two games, with Joe Nuxhall, one of the All-Star game heroes, hitting a three-run homer and scattering five hits before giving way in the seventh.

Baltimore pushed over seven runs in the sixth to beat the A's, putting together the third big inning in as many games at Kansas City with one double and seven singles.

Aussies Favored Over Mexico Duo

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—Australia's talent-loaded tennis crew, winning yesterday's two opening singles matches, today was heavily favored to deliver a clinching doubles punch to win the American Zone Davis Cup showdown with Mexico.

Two more singles matches are scheduled tomorrow, but an expected victory by Lew Hoad and Rex Hartwig, winners of the recent Wimbledon title, over Mexico's Gustavo Palafox and Francisco Guerrero will settle things for the Aussies.

IN OTHER DAVIS Cup matches around the world yesterday, Chile broke even with Sweden in their European Zone semifinal round, Italy advanced to the finals with a triumph over Britain and will meet the winner between Chile and Sweden, and Brazil took a 2-0 lead over Cuba in the North American Zone competition.

Sunday's two-match singles in Chicago will reverse the lineup of yesterday's competition in which Ken Rosewall thumped Palafox, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, and Hartwig conquered 18-year-old Esteban Reyes, 6-0, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING — Murry Dickson, Phillies, shut out Milwaukee 1-0 on three singles and kept the Braves hitless over the last three innings.

HITTING — Don Newcombe, Dodgers, batted 4-for-5, including two singles, a double and his sixth home run that tied a National League record for pitchers, while winning his 15th game in a 12-3 romp over St. Louis.

Allentown Win Is Under Protest

(By The Associated Press)

Does a short outfield fly come under the infield fly rule? Eastern League officials have this puzzler to solve before settling a protest.

THE HOME CLUB was leading 4-2 in the eighth inning when Schenectady put runners on first and second, with nobody out. Jack Hasten sent a fly to short right and when Larry Novak, the runner on second started for third, second baseman Jack Heusman dropped the ball purposely.

He threw to shortstop Chico Mayer to force Frank Herrera, who had hestitated between first and second, thinking the ball might be caught. Then Mayer tossed to first to nip Hasten for a double play.

Schenectady protested that the infield fly rule should have been called. Under it, Hasten would have been ruled out whether the ball was caught or not, and the runners could have held their bases.

IN OTHER ACTION last night, the Reading Indians trounced the host Albany Senators 21-7 to keep their one-game first-place margin over the Binghamton Triplets, who beat the Johnstown Johnnies 6-4.

The Elmira Pioneers bounced two-run clusters in the fifth and ninth innings at Williamsport to bounce the third-place Grays 6-3 and dropped them three games behind Reading.

Every Reading starter got at least two safeties as the Indians peppered four Senator pitchers with 25 hits. Second baseman Joe Comacho pounded out five singles in six tries, batting in three runs.

Miss Venable Shoots 247

Po'keepsie Woman Captures State Title

Miss Venable, a happy-go-lucky, powerfully built blonde, won the 26th state tournament yesterday when she toured the Schuyler Meadows course in 84, making her three-day total 247. She finished a stroke under two former champions in the medal-play event.

THE NEW CHAMPION carded 84 Wednesday and 80 Thursday on the par-76, 6,515-yard layout to succeed Miss Barbara Bruning of White Plains, who did not defend her 1954 crown.

Mrs. Allan Ryan of Locust Valley and Rhinebeck, and Mrs. Philip Allen of Syracuse tied for second with 54-hole scores of 248. They were the only entries to break 80 during the tournament.

Mrs. Allen, who won the title as Virginia Guilfoil in 1941, finished with a 79 after rounds of 89 and 80. Mrs. Ryan, who was the 1952 winner as Grace Armory, turned in a 79 Thursday. She scored 84 Wednesday and 85 yesterday.

Miss Margaret (Sis) Cramer of the Antlers Country Club, Amsterdam, leader the first two days, succumbed to final-round pressure and ran up an 89. Her 81s the first two days put her at 251.

Next with 252 to tie for sixth were Mrs. Reinert Torgerson of Cherry Valley Club, L. I., and Mrs. Charles Keating of Corning.

Mrs. Gerald Sullivan of Binghamton placed eighth with 254 by shooting a last-round 84. Mrs. H. J. Noerling of Valatie, tournament chairman, had 255, and Mrs. James Mulroy of Beacon placed 10th with 256.

Miss Venable, five-time Dutchess Country Club champion, went out in 41 and came home in 43 on the final round. She escaped from trouble several times with fine chip shots and putts.

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

The peak of Little League registration on a national and international level will not be reached in the foreseeable future.

Authority for that statement is a guy who should know, Albert E. Houghton, the national Little League's tournament director and secretary-treasurer.

Houghton, who will be remembered by Kingston organized baseball fans as president of the defunct Canadian-American League, paid Kingston a flying visit with his administrative assistant, J. Ralph Hoyt, to co-ordinate plans for the district tournaments in Kingston and Poughkeepsie and regionals at Albany.

"Little League has such tremendous potential that we can't start to think in terms of a saturation point at the present time," Houghton told William R. Scully, Warren Smith and yours truly.

The genial Houghton, who is enjoying his new role, said Little League is beginning to spread on a global level. It now counts four teams at an American Army installation in Germany, two leagues on the Island of Guam. There are seven leagues operating in Alaska, others in the Canal Zone and inquiries are coming in from Venezuela.

"The American Little Leagues in west Germany are bound to intrigue German youth," Houghton pointed out, "and we soon expect to have some Little Leagues made up entirely of German small fry."

"Little League hasn't made its mark in larger cities of the country because of the lack of suitable playing space," he went on, "but we are catching on in large metropolitan centers like Chicago, Cleveland and Los Angeles. On the other hand we doubt seriously if LL will ever flourish on the island of Manhattan or the Bronx. But we expect steady growth on Long Island."

Houghton pointed up a situation that is growing acute in Kingston and Saugerties when he said there is a crucial need for adult leadership in Little League.

"We must be constantly on the alert to recruit new leadership and be ready to relieve the pioneers of responsibility," he emphasized. And we must impress upon the small fry what LL is doing for them and we must elicit appreciation from them.

Houghton suggested that leagues charge the youngsters one dollar a year to join and be made to buy their own subscription to the national Little League Magazine.

He told another amusing story of those fabulous Texans.

"This one group of Texans contacted national headquarters and asked for information about setting up Little Leagues. Then they went to work.

"Along came a colossal shindig that raised more than $100,000 for Little League ball, if you can believe anything as incredible as that. They had other plans, too, like fireworks, parades, bands at all the games. And arclights. Texans insist LL ball must be played at night, although I think Texas isn't any hotter than Kingston or Albany between 6 and 8 in the evening."

The Texans were willing but national LL couldn't accept on that sort of scale.

The former minor league president is rather skeptical about the future of minor league baseball.

"Schenectady doesn't draw as much in the Eastern as it did in the Can-Am," he says, "and Albany is pretty well shot as a baseball town. I have serious doubts about the future of the Pony and Eastern leagues."

How about that Canadian-American League?, we asked.

"It was fun for several years," he replied, "but things were rough the last two seasons. We should have quit a year before we did."

And a lot of Kingstonians would have been spared many dollars had that happened. Kingston you see, was in on the demise of the once flourishing Class C league.

Colonials to Battle Mohawks at Stadium

New York Mohawks	4	1
Paterson Uncle Sams	4	1
Poughkeepsie	5	2

Still seeking their first victory, the Kingston Colonials tangle with the New York Mohawks in a New York-New Jersey Semi-pro Baseball League game tonight, 8 o'clock, at Dietz Stadium.

BOB MAINES, the lefthander who has been doing some great pitching of late, will probably start on the hill for Manager Fred Davi's team.

The semi-pro ranks aren't the only ones that Maines has been doing well in. He's had two one-hitters in the City League and a three-hitter in the American Legion competition. Bobby features an excellent fast ball, backed up by a good curve.

The Poughkeepsie team, which still hasn't acquired a nickname, picked up its fifth win, 2-1, at the expense of the Dodger Jewels Thursday night at the Bridge City.

MILT GARDNER worked the win for Poughkeepsie, allowing five hits, striking out seven and walking two.

Corky Mullins started for the Jewels and lasted until the eighth. Carmen Donato finished.

Garry Barnes and Walt Harder hooked up in a neat pitching duel last evening in the American Little League at the 156th Artillery Field, but Dodger hitting in the first and fifth innings was too much for Harder to overcome as the Dodgers won their second straight, defeating the Giants, 3-1.

Both young hurlers were masterful, Harder striking out 10 and Barnes fanning nine. Their control was good, too, as Harder walked two and Barnes issued one base on balls.

BARNES DOUBLED Tom Ashdown home in the first frame, and scored himself on errors. Barnes reached first in the fifth on a fielder's choice and scored on Tom Cioni's single.

Game Slated At Dietz Stadium

American Legion Juniors will seek to clinch Ulster county honors Sunday night at Dietz Stadium when they meet the Saugerties team in the second of a best-of-three series. Game time is 8:15 o'clock.

The locals pounded their opponents by an 11-3 score in the opener last Monday.

Giannuzzi didn't pitch in the opener. Bob Maines, another lefty, did the hurling and stopped Saugerties with a classy three-hitter.

Maines will perform in right field tomorrow night, but he may be used if Giannuzzi requires relief help.

RONNIE ASHDOWN will be the catcher. The infield will be Joe Hoffman at first, John Culjak at second, Skip Brodhead at short and Eric Blackwell at third.

The Saugerties hurler will be either Dick Winnie or Jim Farrell, the high school ace. Both are righthanders.

Winnie started last Monday and did a good job until his defense let him down in the fifth inning.

Turnesa in Lead At Halfway Mark Of Open Tourney

Milwaukee, July 16 (AP) — Little Jim Turnesa, one of seven golfing brothers, fired a record 7 under par 63 yesterday that carried him into first place at the halfway point of the $35,000 Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

A 36 hole total of 130 moved the 1952 PGA titlist past the first day's leader, Dr. Cary Middlecoff, of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. Turnesa, of Briarcliff, N. Y., was out in 31 and back in 32 over the par 70 Blue Mound Country Club. He claimed a 67 in the first round Thursday.

MIDDLECOFF, who matched the course record with a 64 Thursday, added a 67 yesterday and was one stroke off the pace at 131.

Par was beaten 44 times yesterday and the surge of great games left one prominent victim. Jack Fleck, Davenport, Iowa, the 1955 U. S. Open champion, added a 73 to his opening 72 for a 145 and failed to qualify for the final 36 holes. It took a 142 only two strokes over regulation for 36, to get into the final rounds.

The tremendous shooting provided another record yesterday when Walker Inman Jr., Augusta, Ga., raced through the back nine in 28 shots, seven under par. Middlecoff set the old record Thursday at 29.

INMAN WAS 37 on the first nine and 71-65—136 for the first two days. Among the others at 136 was Sam Snead, pretourney favorite from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on rounds of 69-67, and Don Cherry, the meet's low amateur. Cherry, Wichita Falls, Tex., had 18's of 68-68.

The 43-year old Turnesa approached the pins with dazzling shots and downed his putts with ease from all over the greens. His sizzling putter carried him to five birdies on the out nine. He dropped in a 15 footer on the 15th for another birdie and added two more on short putts on the 14th and 18th holes.

Favorites in Action

Atlanta, July 16 (AP)—Favorites only—just the way they were seeded—played in the National clay courts tennis tournament mens' and women's semifinals today. Big Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, Wimbledon champion and seeded No. 1 here, faced third-seeded Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J.; and Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., seeded after Trabert, took on Bernard Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., the defending champion and seeded fourth. In the women's bracket favorite Barbara Breit of North Hollywood, Calif., faced third-seeded Jean Clarke of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Almeda, Calif., seeded second, met top-seeded foreign star, Yola Ramirez from Mexico City.

Navy, Artillery, Jets, Marines

Imagine What VFW Will Do to Cops July 27!

After learning that the Kingston Patrolmen's Association considers them to be "easy competition," the Veterans of Foreign Wars are up in arms.

"If the Axis forces couldn't beat us VFW boys in the Second World War," growled Jake Senor, manager of the Vets, "how's a bunch of cops going to do it?"

"Lemme tell you, we've got a Navy battery, an artillery infield, a jet-propelled outfield and a bunch of Marines as shock troops ready for those cops," continued Jake.

WHAT'S THIS all about? It's the VFW-KPA baseball game at Dietz Stadium on Wednesday night, July 27.

It's hardly expected that Senor's blast at the gendarmes will go unheeded. A return statement from police headquarters is forthcoming.

The VFW manager reported that interest in the game has reached a fever pitch already. "My boys are champing at the bit," Jake declared. "We consider the cops our meat."

THE SCOREBOARD

By ED WILKS
(The Associated Press)

A year ago, Don Newcombe's failure was one of the reasons Brooklyn lost the pennant. Now, he may well be the most valuable figure in what looks like a Dodger runaway in the National League.

Newk was 20-9 in 1951 before leaving for the army, and the big righthander's return last season was to have clinched a third straight flag for the Brooks. But on top of Roy Campanella's injuries, Newcombe was only a 9-8 pitcher and Brooklyn was only a runnerup.

NEWCOMBE'S MAKING up for all that this season. A Colonia, N. J., resident, he was one of the big guys in Brooklyn's fast get away, and now that injuries have slowed the Dodgers a bit, Newcombe's become the stopper.

He halted a three-game Brooklyn slump yesterday, both on the mound and at the bat. Newcombe scattered eight St. Louis hits, and when the Cards got close, touched off a six-run rally with his sixth homer to win 12-3. Coupled with Milwaukee's 1-0 defeat at Philadelphia last night, that put Brooklyn 11½ games out front again.

Newk really had himself a day. It was his 15th victory, against one defeat, and he had two singles and a double in addition to the home run that tied a National League record for pitchers. He drove in three runs in the Dodgers' 16-hit attack on five St. Louis hurlers. Two of the RBIs came in the eighth-inning outburst when he chipped in his homer and a single.

HAL SCHUMACHER of the New York Giants set the NL homer mark for pitchers in 1934 and Boston's Jim Tobin tied it with six in 1942. Cleveland's Wes Farrell set the Major League mark, within Newk's range, with nine in 1931.

With their lead back in shape, Brooklyn's main worry now may be the New York Giants, who continued their revival by grabbing third place from Chicago with a 5-3 victory over the Cubs. Cincinnati whipped Pittsburgh 9-1, in the other NL game, tying St. Louis for fifth place.

In the American, New York dumped Cleveland to third with a 4-3 decision in 10 innings. Chicago took over second, 4½ games behind the Yanks, by edging Washington 5-4. Baltimore whipped Kansas City 8-5. Rain postponed Boston at Detroit.

THE GIANTS moved up 14½ games behind Brooklyn by winning their eighth in the last nine. Jim Hearn took his ninth triumph after New York scored four runs in the first inning. Willie Mays, 'til now a humpty-dumpty for Cub hurlers, got 3-for-3. Jim King homered for the Cubs, who had Randy Jackson, Dee Fondy and Hank Sauer on the bench in a lineup switch that didn't keep Chicago from losing its eighth in 11 games.

Murry Dickson cooled off the Braves, who had won 19 of 26, giving just three hits. A walk and Marv Blaylock's triple produced the run in the eighth as Lew Burdette lost a six-hitter.

The Yanks caught up with Cleveland's 3-0 lead in the ninth on Eddie Robinson's three-run homer off Early Wynn. Then Erv Noren smacked Mike Garcia for the home run that won in the 10th. Two unearned runs in the first and Al Rosen's homer fell short for the Tribe, with Tom Morgan the winner in relief.

BOB KENNEDY'S two-run triple in the ninth won for the White Sox, who trimmed the Senators for the 11th straight time and knocked the Nats into a virtual tie with Baltimore for seventh place. Dixie Howell won in relief after Chuck Stobbs and loser Johnny Schmitz held the Sox hitless for six frames until Kennedy connected.

The Redlegs ran up a 28-run total against the Bucs in two games, with Joe Nuxhall, one of the All-Star game heroes, hitting a three-run homer and scattering five hits before giving way in the seventh.

Baltimore pushed over seven runs in the sixth to beat the A's, putting together the third big inning in as many games at Kansas City with one double and seven singles.

Pacing Derby Tonight

Vernon, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—The $26,000 American pacing dery at Vernon Downs has been rescheduled for tonight. Rain washed out the entire harness race program last night. Adios Harry, holder of the competitive mile pacing record, and 11 other leading pacers are entered in the derby, which consists of two one-mile dashes.

Aussies Favored Over Mexico Duo

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—Australia's talent-loaded tennis crew, winning yesterday's two opening singles matches, today was heavily favored to deliver a clinching doubles punch to win the American Zone Davis Cup showdown with Mexico.

Two more singles matches are scheduled tomorrow, but an expected victory by Lew Hoad and Rex Hartwig, winners of the recent Wimbledon title, over Mexico's Gustavo Palafox and Francisco Guerrero will settle things for the Aussies.

IN OTHER DAVIS Cup matches around the world yesterday, Chile broke even with Sweden in their European Zone semifinal round, Italy advanced to the finals with a triumph over Britain and will meet the winner between Chile and Sweden, and Brazil took a 2-0 lead over Cuba in the North American Zone competition.

Sunday's two-match singles in Chicago will reverse the lineup of yesterday's competition in which Ken Rosewall thumped Palafox, 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, and Hartwig conquered 18-year-old Esteban Reyes, 6-0, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING — Murry Dickson, Phillies, shut out Milwaukee 1-0 on three singles and kept the Braves hitless over the last three innings.

HITTING — Don Newcombe, Dodgers, batted 4-for-5, including two singles, a double and his sixth home run that tied a National League record for pitchers, while winning his 15th game in a 12-3 romp over St. Louis.

Allentown Win Is Under Protest

(By The Associated Press)

Does a short outfield fly come under the infield fly rule? Eastern League officials have this puzzler to solve before settling a protest.

THE HOME CLUB was leading 4-2 in the eighth inning when Schenectady put runners on first and second, with nobody out. Jack Hasten sent a fly to short right and when Larry Novak, the runner on second started for third, second baseman Jack Heusman dropped the ball purposely.

He threw to shortstop Chico Mayer to force Frank Herrera, who had hestitated between first and second, thinking the ball might be caught. Then Mayer tossed to first to nip Hasten for a double play.

Schenectady protested that the infield fly rule should have been called. Under it, Hasten would have been ruled out whether the ball was caught or not, and the runners could have held their bases.

IN OTHER ACTION last night, the Reading Indians trounced the host Albany Senators 21-7 to keep their one-game first-place margin over the Binghamton Triplets, who beat the Johnstown Johnnies 6-4.

The Elmira Pioneers bounced two-run clusters in the fifth and ninth innings at Williamsport to bounce the third-place Grays 6-3 and dropped them three games behind Reading.

Every Reading starter got at least two safeties as the Indians peppered four Senator pitchers with 25 hits. Second baseman Joe Comacho pounded out five singles in six tries, batting in three runs.

At Binghamton, the Triplets capitalized on two errors for four runs in the seventh.

The peak of Little League registration on a national and international level will not be reached in the foreseeable future.

Authority for that statement is a guy who should know, Albert E. Houghton, the national Little League's tournament director and secretary-treasurer.

Houghton, who will be remembered by Kingston organized baseball fans as president of the defunct Canadian-American League, paid Kingston a flying visit with his administrative assistant, J. Ralph Hoyt, to co-ordinate plans for the district tournaments in Kingston and Poughkeepsie and regionals at Albany.

"Little League has such tremendous potential that we can't start to think in terms of a saturation point at the present time," Houghton told William R. Scully, Warren Smith and yours truly.

The genial Houghton, who is enjoying his new role, said Little League is beginning to spread on a global level. It now counts four teams at an American Army installation in Germany, two leagues on the Island of Guam. There are seven leagues operating in Alaska, others in the Canal Zone and inquiries are coming in from Venezuela.

"The American Little Leagues in west Germany are bound to intrigue German youth," Houghton pointed out, "and we soon expect to have some Little Leagues made up entirely of German small fry."

"Little League hasn't made its mark in larger cities of the country because of the lack of suitable playing space," he went on, "but we are catching on in large metropolitan centers like Chicago, Cleveland and Los Angeles. On the other hand we doubt seriously if LL will ever flourish on the island of Manhattan or the Bronx. But we expect steady growth on Long Island."

Houghton pointed up a situation that is growing acute in Kingston and Saugerties when he said there is a crucial need for adult leadership in Little League.

"We must be constantly on the alert to recruit new leadership and be ready to relieve the pioneers of responsibility," he emphasized. And we must impress upon the small fry what LL is doing for them and we must elicit appreciation from them.

Houghton suggested that leagues charge the youngsters one dollar a year to join and be made to buy their own subscription to the national Little League Magazine.

He told another amusing story of those fabulous Texans.

"This one group of Texans contacted national headquarters and asked for information about setting up Little Leagues. Then they went to work.

"Along came a colossal shindig that raised more than $100,000 for Little League ball, if you can believe anything as incredible as that. They had other plans, too, like fireworks, parades, bands at all the games. And arclights. Texans insist LL ball must be played at night, although I think Texas isn't any hotter than Kingston or Albany between 6 and 8 in the evening."

The Texans were willing but national LL couldn't accept on that sort of scale.

The former minor league president is rather skeptical about the future of minor league baseball.

"Schenectady doesn't draw as much in the Eastern as it did in the Can-Am," he says, "and Albany is pretty well shot as a baseball town. I have serious doubts about the future of the Pony and Eastern leagues."

How about that Canadian-American League?, we asked.

"It was fun for several years," he replied, "but things were rough the last two seasons. We should have quit a year before we did."

And a lot of Kingstonians would have been spared many dollars had that happened. Kingston you see, was in on the demise of the once flourishing Class C league.

Garry Barnes and Walt Harder hooked up in a neat pitching duel last evening in the American Little League at the 156th Artillery Field, but Dodger hitting in the first and fifth innings was too much for Harder to overcome as the Dodgers won their second straight, defeating the Giants, 3-1.

Both young hurlers were masterful, Harder striking out 10 and Barnes fanning nine. Their control was good, too, as Harder walked two and Barnes issued one base on balls.

BARNES DOUBLED Tom Ashdown home in the first frame, and scored himself on errors. Barnes reached first in the fifth on a fielder's choice and scored on Tom Cioni's single.

New York-New Jersey League

Team	Won	Lost
New York Mohawks	4	1
Paterson Uncle Sams	4	1
Poughkeepsie	5	2
N'burgh Dodger Jewels	3	4
Brooklyn Windsors	1	5
Kingston Colonials	0	4

Still seeking their first victory, the Kingston Colonials tangle with the New York Mohawks in a New York-New Jersey Semi-pro Baseball League game tonight, 8 o'clock, at Dietz Stadium.

BOB MAINES, the lefthander who has been doing some great pitching of late, will probably start on the hill for Manager Fred Davi's team.

Maines pitched last Saturday against Newburgh and during his six-inning stint, allowed only two hits.

The semi-pro ranks aren't the only ones that Maines has been doing well in. He's had two one-hitters in the City League and a three-hitter in the American Legion competition. Bobby features an excellent fast ball, backed up by a good curve.

The Poughkeepsie team, which still hasn't acquired a nickname, picked up its fifth win, 2-1, at the expense of the Dodger Jewels Thursday night at the Bridge City.

MILT GARDNER worked the win for Poughkeepsie, allowing five hits, striking out seven and walking two.

Corky Mullins started for the Jewels and lasted until the eighth. Carmen Donato finished.

Miss Venable Shoots 247

Po'keepsie Woman Captures State Title

Miss Venable, a happy-go-lucky, powerfully built blonde, won the 26th state tournament yesterday when she toured the Schuyler Meadows course in 84, making her three-day total 247. She finished a stroke under two former champions in the medal-play event.

THE NEW CHAMPION carded 84 Wednesday and 80 Thursday on the par-76, 6,515-yard layout to succeed Miss Barbara Bruning of White Plains, who did not defend her 1954 crown.

Mrs. Allan Ryan of Locust Valley and Rhinebeck, and Mrs. Philip Allen of Syracuse tied for second with 54-hole scores of 248. They were the only entries to break 80 during the tournament.

Mrs. Allen, who won the title as Virginia Guilfoil in 1941, finished with a 79 after rounds of 89 and 80. Mrs. Ryan, who was the 1952 winner as Grace Armory, turned in a 79 Thursday. She scored 84 Wednesday and 85 yesterday.

Miss Margaret (Sis) Cramer of the Antlers Country Club, Amsterdam, leader the first two days, succumbed to final-round pressure and ran up an 89. Her 81s the first two days put her at 251.

Next with 252 to tie for sixth were Mrs. Reinert Torgerson of Cherry Valley Club, L. I., and Mrs. Charles Keating of Corning.

MRS. TORGERSON, a five-time winner had a final-round 84. Mrs. Keating finished with 80.

Mrs. Gerald Sullivan of Binghamton placed eighth with 254 by shooting a last-round 84. Mrs. H. J. Noerling of Valatie, tournament chairman, had 255, and Mrs. James Mulroy of Beacon placed 10th with 256.

Miss Venable, five-time Dutchess Country Club champion, went out in 41 and came home in 43 on the final round. She escaped from trouble several times with fine chip shots and putts.

Tigers Cop First Game With 10-6 Win in National

	W	L
Indians	4	0
Pirates	2	2
Tigers	1	3
Braves	1	3

A couple of firsts were registered in the National Little League at Kingman Park last evening.

Joe Clause hit his first home run of the season, and Island Dock Tigers racked up their first victory of the schedule with 10-6 win over the Trailways Braves.

In addition to his circuit clout, Clause slammed two doubles. Charles Blanschan, Freeman Woods, and Bill Huber of the Braves also collected doubles.

LON McANDREW picked up the victory, fanning nine and issuing one walk. Bill Reid was tagged with the loss.

Because of the league's late starting date twin bills are being scheduled for the weekends to make up games. A doubleheader was slated this afternoon with the Indians against the Braves in the opener, and the Tigers paired with the Pirates in the nightcap.

Eddolls Is Signed To Coach Buffalo

Buffalo, July 16 (AP)—Frank Eddolls has been signed to coach the Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League next season.

Eddolls, onetime star with the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, coached the Chicago Black Hawks last year in that league. They finished last.

Eddolls coached the Bisons two seasons before moving up to the Blackhawks last fall. The Hawks now own the Bisons.

It was announced some months ago that Dick Irwin would succeed Eddolls as coach of the Hawks.

Gaye Stewart, present coach of the Bisons, will be kept in the organization said Tommy Ivan, general manager of the Chicago team, in his announcement yesterday.

Prepares Action on Roads

Washington, July 16 (AP)—The House Public Works Committee prepared for House action next week a 12-year, 48½ billion dollar road construction program with heavier taxes to pay for it. The committee approved the program yesterday 22-6, but arranged to meet again next week to act finally on the bill after technical revisions have been completed.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

By Hal Sharp

UPSTREAM "WETS"

WHEN THE USUAL CROSS AND DOWNSTREAM CASTS AND RETRIEVES FAIL TO PRODUCE, TRY QUARTERING OR DIRECTLY UPSTREAM CASTS AGAINST FLOW (AS IF USING NYMPHS) FOR A DEEPER DRIFT. RUB MUD OR A "LEADER SINK" PREPARATION ON WET FLY AND ALL OR PART OF LEADER (TO DESIRED DEPTH). LINE MUST FLOAT, NOT SINK AS IN USUAL WET-FLY FISHING. KEEP LINE SLACK FREE. WATCH DRY FLY'S REACTION AS SIGNAL OF STRIKE (USUALLY NOT FELT). AT SIGNAL, STRIKE QUICKLY! WORK UPSTREAM FROM SPOT TO SPOT (LIKE USING DRY FLIES).

Quick Chief Wins

Westbury, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Quick Chief, favorite for the Little Brown Jug at Delaware, Ohio, chalked up his seventh victory in nine starts this year as he won the $15,000 Adios Pace in 2:01 4/5 at Roosevelt Raceway last night. With Billy Haughton handling the reins, the 3-year-old pacer from the Farmstead Acres of Brookville, N. Y., reached the end of the mile a head in front of Libby's Boy. Poplar Bill was only another nose back in the tight finish.

Bees must pollinate about 75,000 clover blossoms for every pound of clover seed produced.

Tea first was used as a medicine in China. Earliest reference to it was found in a Chinese dictionary nearly 4000 years old.

Glenerie Man Seeks Missing Heater Parts

Joseph Fiocca of Lake Glenerie has a mystery of a missing electric water heater and parts of an electric stove which he would like to solve. Last year his father-in-law, Charles Cerrato of Box 231, Route 3, Saugerties, left the family bungalow with the parts to be repaired. Returning home he was asked where he had taken them and he replied "they will call when the repairs are made."

Unfortunately, Mr. Cerrato is now deceased and no one knows where the parts were taken. "I'd gladly call for them if I knew where they are," said Fiocca, who is now at the summer place and desirous of solving the mystery of who is repairing the needed parts. "They might be in Kingston, or they might be in Saugerties," said Fiocca.

Tigers Cop First Game With 10-6 Win in National

Pirates	2	2
Tigers	1	3
Braves	1	3

A couple of firsts were registered in the National Little League at Kingman Park last evening.

Joe Clause hit his first home run of the season, and Island Dock Tigers racked up their first victory of the schedule with 10-6 win over the Trailways Braves.

In addition to his circuit clout, Clause slammed two doubles. Charles Blanschan, Freeman Woods, and Bill Huber of the Braves also collected doubles.

LON McANDREW picked up the victory, fanning nine and issuing one walk. Bill Reid was tagged with the loss.

Because of the league's late starting date twin bills are being scheduled for the weekends to make up games. A doubleheader was slated this afternoon with the Indians against the Braves in the opener, and the Tigers paired with the Pirates in the nightcap.

Eddolls Is Signed To Coach Buffalo

Buffalo, July 16 (AP)—Frank Eddolls has been signed to coach the Buffalo Bisons in the American Hockey League next season.

Eddolls, onetime star with the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, coached the Chicago Black Hawks last year in that league. They finished last.

Eddolls coached the Bisons two seasons before moving up to the Blackhawks last fall. The Hawks now own the Bisons.

It was announced some months ago that Dick Irwin would succeed Eddolls as coach of the Hawks.

Gaye Stewart, present coach of the Bisons, will be kept in the organization said Tommy Ivan, general manager of the Chicago team, in his announcement yesterday.

The committee approved the program yesterday 22-6, but arranged to meet again next week to act finally on the bill after technical revisions have been completed.

Quick Chief Wins

Westbury, N. Y., July 16 (AP)—Quick Chief, favorite for the Little Brown Jug at Delaware, Ohio, chalked up his seventh victory in nine starts this year as he won the $15,000 Adios Pace in 2:01 4/5 at Roosevelt Raceway last night. With Billy Haughton handling the reins, the 3-year-old pacer from the Farmstead Acres of Brookville, N. Y., reached the end of the mile a head in front of Libby's Boy. Poplar Bill was only another nose back in the tight finish.

Glenerie Man Seeks Missing Heater Parts

Joseph Fiocca of Lake Glenerie has a mystery of a missing electric water heater and parts of an electric stove which he would like to solve. Last year his father-in-law, Charles Cerrato of Box 231, Route 3, Saugerties, left the family bungalow with the parts to be repaired. Returning home he was asked where he had taken them and he replied "they will call when the repairs are made."

Unfortunately, Mr. Cerrato is now deceased and no one knows where the parts were taken. "I'd gladly call for them if I knew where they are," said Fiocca, who is now at the summer place and desirous of solving the mystery of who is repairing the needed parts. "They might be in Kingston, or they might be in Saugerties," said Fiocca.

West Diplomats

man unity and free elections until the Russians have had a chance to soften up the West Germans a bit more.

The Reds are determined to avoid any discussion of such "painful" issues as the liberation of Eastern Europe, even though President Eisenhower may have a very different intention.

As the crucial conference unfolds in Geneva's historic Palace of Nations, one thing emerges clearly: When the West was weak the Russians insisted on getting down to brass tacks and avoiding global issues. Now that the West has the H-bomb — which the Russians apparently do not have in practical form as yet—they spurn the brass tacks and insist on roaming over the globe.

Khrushchev's "new look" Reds certainly want peace — but at their own price. They might even withdraw the Red troops from Germany to the Polish frontier—about 40 miles from Berlin. But in return the West would have to guarantee the neutralization of Germany — and the withdrawal of U. S. forces from Europe.

The Muscovites are only too well aware that a neutral Germany means a helpless Germany and eventually, they hope, a Soviet-dominated Germany.

The Russians—to cloud a foggy "summit" even further—are also anxious to discuss Far Eastern problems at Geneva. There are strong rumors that India's neutralist Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, who just visited both Moscow and London, was asked by Khrushchev to press Britain's Prime Minister Anthony Eden on this subject.

HOWEVER EDEN—much as he would like to please Nehru—is aware that President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles strongly oppose the intrusion of Asian problems.

U. S. leaders realize the importance of a Far East settlement in the general search for relaxation of tension. But they beileve that the short week alloted for the talks would barely suffice to explore such pressing issues as German unity, a European security system including the Red bloc and a united Germany, and steps towards the limitation of armaments.

THE RUSSIANS no doubt have their own private time-table for the conference. They obviously intend to drag their feet in the hope that public impatience and European nervousness will force the Western Allies to make concessions, or, better still, force them apart.

The Reds' sudden armed attack in Laos — in violation of last year's Geneva agreement—is the Moscow-Peiping Axis' crude reminder to the West that they remain in a position to stir up trouble in Asia.

However, Western diplomats accustomed to dealing with the Russians believe that there is not the least evidence that Allied firmness at Geneva will provoke the Reds into new adventures more dangerous than those on which they have already embarked.

They say the only thing that might lead the Moscow-Peiping Axis to rash action would be the appearance at the Geneva talks of a yawning rift between the Western powers themselves. This they would be quick to exploit by a return to toughness.

No Thoroughfare!

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—Daniel McCarthy, 21, drove his car through a plate glass display window into a vacant store, turned right and started to drive out through another window, police said. They booked McCarthy, whose machine stalled halfway through the second window, on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor or drugs.

Japanese Storm Lashes Southern Coastal Islands

Tokyo, July 16 (AP) — Sixty-mile-an-hour winds lashed southern Japan tonight as a new typhoon bore down on Kyushu island.

Japan's central meteorological observatory said the first heavy fringe winds of the new storm hit the nation's southernmost main island shortly after 6 p. m.

AN OBSERVATORY spokesman said the typhoon's full force probably would hit the southern tip of Kyushu about midnight or shortly after.

IT IS EXPECTED to whip across Kyushu and hit Fukuoka City about 3 a. m. Sunday.

Winds up to 80 miles an hour blew at Dot's center. The storm will bring heavy rain and winds to Kyushu, Shikoku, and southern Honshu, the forecasters said.

Typhoon Clara blew itself out along the China coast after brushing the Ryukyus archipelago. It moved between Korea and Japan before veering into China.

also areas in which the Soviet Union is giving great emphasis and high priority.

"Thus we can expect our difficulties in maintaining a technical superiority in weapons to increase. Certainly, we are in no position to be complacent, either quantitatively or qualitatively."

Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, chief of the Strategic Air Command — Lemay considers his command fully capable of inflicting decisive blows against an aggressor and said "the aircraft and weapons supplied to us by American technology and production are qualitatively superior." But, Lemay added, we have no reason to be complacent and every effort must be made to ensure that research, development and production capacity is kept superior.

SUMMING UP, Lemay said the capability of the Strategic Air Command is increasing and will continue to increase "with the proper emphasis on the development of aircraft and weapons" and the buildup of a corps of career fliers.

The official summary of Twining's briefing said the air chief outlined requirements for maintaining a qualitatively superior air force, "looking into the future some 5 to 10 years." It gave no details.

NATO Endorses

Western strategy and tactics for the Geneva negotiations remained secret, but it appeared clear that the Big Three hoped progress would be made in the spirit and atmosphere of the talks.

THE WESTERN powers are not going to Geneva with specific proposals prepared, but the Russians may offer some.

The first meeting between President Eisenhower, Britain's Prime Minister Eden, French Premier Faure and Soviet Premier Bulganin will be held Monday.

The West hopes that after perhaps a week of the top-level talks they will have reached agreement on an outline for future negotiations by their foreign ministers.

It was expected that such a course would call for the ministers to develop specific agreements on German unification, European security and disarmament.

More Funds Sought For AEC Expenses

Washington. July 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed a reduced Atomic Energy Commission money bill with hopes that Congress will reconsider and make more money available later.

The measure provides $1,380,847,000 of both old and new funds for AEC operating expenses in 1955-56 for the AEC—$144,404,000 less than the President requested.

The President signed it yesterday and at the same time issued a statement saying the cut voted by Congress could seriously disrupt this country's production of nuclear weapons and other atomic developments.

To Pray for Success

New York, July 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower's call for prayers for the success of the Geneva conference drew an immediate response today from clergymen. Leaders of various denominations announced that prayers would be said tomorrow at their churches. The World Council of Churches and the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. already had appealed for special prayers.

Talbott to Testify

Washington, July 16 (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Talbott will go before the Senate Investigations subcommittee, probably Monday, to tell of his business associations—for which he says he has "no apology of any sort." The subcommittee confirmed yesterday it has invited Talbott to a private conference which may determine whether its members will order a broad-scale investigation including public hearings.

Jobless Mission

much to ask that the department should move right in and lick the situation."

To "lick the situation" is just what the department is trying to do, Dickinson maintains. But, he adds, the most the state can do is to "help the communities to help themselves."

In an attempt to lure new industries into the state, the department has stepped up its "selling" campaign in other states. Last month, department agents visited 231 businesses in about two dozen states to extoll the virtues of New York as a site for new industrial plants.

DICKINSON SAYS he is launching an industrial advertising drive in national magazines to "sell" the state to businessmen through that medium.

"The first thing we must do is to create an atmosphere where business feels it is wanted here," Dickinson said. "Then we have got to get them to come."

So far there has been no big pay-off from the "selling" drive. But Dickinson, a onetime business executive himself, insists that patience and persistence will bring results. Most companies take months—some years—before they commit themselves publicly to move or to erect new facilities in a prospective site, he says.

HOWEVER, HE SAYS, some prospects, still in the confidential negotiating stage, show signs of bearing fruit.

Kent says he knows of no impending deals that will bring relief to Amsterdam. The community recently erected a $250,000 building, which it would lease to industry. So far, there have been no takers.

The city, at the Commerce Department's suggestion, also launched a six-week clean-up drive. It removed tons of debris from streets and lots, painted buildings, and planted shrubs and trees—all to present a pleasing facade to prospective industrial tenants.

But the prospects are nil, says Kent.

KENT SAYS he has "the greatest respect and admiration" for Harriman and his administration chieftains. "But the fact remains that they have not done a single, solitary thing for us," he asserted.

During the gubernatorial election, Amsterdam bolted into the Democratic column. Kent, who says he belongs to no political party, attributes the shift to acceptance of Harriman's pledge to aid the jobless.

War 2 . . .

Ishii with chief responsibility for such warfare.

Ishii's whereabouts are unknown. The Nippon Times, in a story about Akiyama's article, said Ishii was reported missing in 1950.

Akiyama said the human guinea pigs "were mosly Chinese and Manchurians, and occasionally Koreans, Japanese, Russians and halfbreeds of uncertain nationalities.

He said that orders to destroy the center were given in August 1945 after Russia entered the war against Japan.

The prisoners being held at the center were given arsenic poisoned food for breakfast August 9, Akiyama reported. The bodies were burned. The buildings and equipment were destroyed.

Akiyama said he was "astounded by the magnificence" of the center when he first saw it.

"OUTWARDLY it showed itself as a Red Cross unit, with a big Red Cross mark in the center of the main building but underground it was conducting bacteriological warfare experiments."

Akiyama emphasized in his article that he had written the story from memory and that he had no physical evidence to support his story.

In addition to bomb experiments and injection of germs—cholera, typhus and bubonic plague—the center also experimented in contaminating food and personal articles, he wrote. Experimenters even inserted germ cultures in fountain pens in seeking ways to spread contagion in civilian populations, he added.

Rhee Against UN Seat Bringing in Red China Deal

Seoul, July 16 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said today he wants South Korea admitted to the United Nations "but not at the price of a deal which would admit Red China."

In an exclusive interview on the eve of the Big Four summit conference at Geneva, 80-year-old Rhee recalled that 23 years ago he begged the League of Nations there for Korea's liberation from Japan.

RHEE SAID he was not "particularly anxious" for the Korean unification issue to come before the summit meeting.

With bitterness, he said: "We are familiar with the U. S. appeasement policy regarding the Communist problem and we have very little hope of getting a justifiable solution to our unification program.

"We have insisted from the beginning, and still do, that force is the only way of unifying Korea and saving the free nations of Europe and Asia — and even the United States."

THE ARMISTICE ending the Korean War maintained the boundary between Communist North Korea and South Korea.

Asked if he would run again for president next year, Rhee said, "I have not yet decided. I will decide when I have to cross that bridge."

Peron Concludes Role As Revolution Chief

Buenos Aires, Argentina, July 16 (AP)—President Juan D. Peron has declared the end of his own revolution and informed his followers Argentina henceforth can settle down to "a new era of constitutional character."

"The permanent state of the country cannot be revolutionary," the president said in an address to congressmen of the Peronista party yesterday. He said he was retiring as "chief of the revolution to become president of all Argentina — friends and foes." He implied life would be freer for both.

"The government has obtained its objectives and has directed virtually all political action . . . but from now on, the government will perform only the functions of government and political action will remain exclusively in the hands of political organizations," Peron said.

Chicago Store Has Million Dollar Fire

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—A fire caused an estimated one million dollars damage to the 12-story Maurice L. Rothschild clothing store in downtown State street last night.

Flames shot through the top floor of the building at State street and Jackson Blvd., sending heavy clouds of smoke over the Loop.

Traffic was snarled for more than two hours by the extra-alarm blaze. Thousands of persons massed against ropes set by police to keep spectators out of the area of falling debris. The heat from the fire caused upper floor windows to break, showering the crowd with fragments of glass. No one was reported injured.

EVER ADD UP WHAT YOU COULD LOSE?
You have perhaps often added up what you are worth. Ever add up what you could LOSE? It might perhaps be several times what you are worth.
Example: you may injure somebody, and the law may take all you're worth and attach your future income for years to come.
Example: your house may burn and it may cost you twice its original price to replace it.
Sometime add up all the losses you MIGHT have and you'll see that you are under-insured at many points — against theft, fires, lawsuits, embezzlement, interruption of business, etc.
Gloomy? Well, the purpose of the insurance policies we write is to end this kind of gloomy thinking.

West Diplomats

man unity and free elections until the Russians have had a chance to soften up the West Germans a bit more.

The Reds are determined to avoid any discussion of such "painful" issues as the liberation of Eastern Europe, even though President Eisenhower may have a very different intention.

As the crucial conference unfolds in Geneva's historic Palace of Nations, one thing emerges clearly: When the West was weak the Russians insisted on getting down to brass tacks and avoiding global issues. Now that the West has the H-bomb — which the Russians apparently do not have in practical form as yet—they spurn the brass tacks and insist on roaming over the globe.

Khrushchev's "new look" Reds certainly want peace — but at their own price. They might even withdraw the Red troops from Germany to the Polish frontier—about 40 miles from Berlin. But in return the West would have to guarantee the neutralization of Germany — and the withdrawal of U. S. forces from Europe.

The Muscovites are only too well aware that a neutral Germany means a helpless Germany and eventually, they hope, a Soviet-dominated Germany.

The Russians—to cloud a foggy "summit" even further—are also anxious to discuss Far Eastern problems at Geneva. There are strong rumors that India's neutralist Premier Jawaharlal Nehru, who just visited both Moscow and London, was asked by Khrushchev to press Britain's Prime Minister Anthony Eden on this subject.

HOWEVER EDEN—much as he would like to please Nehru—is aware that President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles strongly oppose the intrusion of Asian problems.

U. S. leaders realize the importance of a Far East settlement in the general search for relaxation of tension. But they beileve that the short week alloted for the talks would barely suffice to explore such pressing issues as German unity, a European security system including the Red bloc and a united Germany, and steps towards the limitation of armaments.

THE RUSSIANS no doubt have their own private time-table for the conference. They obviously intend to drag their feet in the hope that public impatience and European nervousness will force the Western Allies to make concessions, or, better still, force them apart.

The Reds' sudden armed attack in Laos — in violation of last year's Geneva agreement—is the Moscow-Peiping Axis' crude reminder to the West that they remain in a position to stir up trouble in Asia.

However, Western diplomats accustomed to dealing with the Russians believe that there is not the least evidence that Allied firmness at Geneva will provoke the Reds into new adventures more dangerous than those on which they have already embarked.

They say the only thing that might lead the Moscow-Peiping Axis to rash action would be the appearance at the Geneva talks of a yawning rift between the Western powers themselves. This they would be quick to exploit by a return to toughness.

No Thoroughfare!

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—Daniel McCarthy, 21, drove his car through a plate glass display window into a vacant store, turned right and started to drive out through another window, police said. Japanese Storm Lashes Southern Coastal Islands

Tokyo, July 16 (AP) — Sixty-mile-an-hour winds lashed southern Japan tonight as a new typhoon bore down on Kyushu island.

Japan's central meteorological observatory said the first heavy fringe winds of the new storm hit the nation's southernmost main island shortly after 6 p. m.

AN OBSERVATORY spokesman said the typhoon's full force probably would hit the southern tip of Kyushu about midnight or shortly after.

Located today about 205 miles south, southeast of Shikoku, Japan's southernmost island, Dot was moving northwesterly at 18 miles an hour.

IT IS EXPECTED to whip across Kyushu and hit Fukuoka City about 3 a. m. Sunday.

Winds up to 80 miles an hour blew at Dot's center. The storm will bring heavy rain and winds to Kyushu, Shikoku, and southern Honshu, the forecasters said.

Typhoon Clara blew itself out along the China coast after brushing the Ryukyus archipelago. It moved between Korea and Japan before veering into China.

Example: you may injure somebody, and the law may take all you're worth and attach your future income for years to come.
Example: your house may burn and it may cost you twice its original price to replace it.
Sometime add up all the losses you MIGHT have and you'll see that you are under-insured at many points — against theft, fires, lawsuits, embezzlement, interruption of business, etc.
Gloomy? Well, the purpose of the insurance policies we write is to end this kind of gloomy thinking.
